VIDEO REVIEW

The latest release from Euroboy opens to familiar views of London landmarks. Featuring guys that can be seen on the scene and plots that most of us have actually experienced, straight away you know you're going to be treated to Euroboy's trademark twink porn – it's the sexy boy next door, that guy you sat next to on the bus, that one you saw in a club – a welcome antidote to the buffed, bronzed, monosyllabic "actors" from across the pond. The plot revolves around the main character, the gorgeous Jack Jefferson, and his wank fantasies. As he bashes his bishop he gives a filthy commentary on encounters he's had and scenarios he's dreamed up. From getting a face full of gushing jism whilst on his knees in the cottage, to picking up on the tube and replaying his DJ pick-up fantasy. There are six hot scenes including this reviewer's two favourites: an all out threeway in a hostel involving three mates who are too restless to sleep, and a three-way shot in a sex shop featuring one very sexy fucker from the back pages of QX. The script is very well written and those who get off on dirty talk should turn the volume up and enjoy. The extras include interviews with the models, which includes solo performances where they beat off and cum – enough to be considered as another DVD. There's also behind the scenes section. 'Innocence'? More like 'Innocence Lost'.

Innocence is available from Prowler.
