
VINCENT THOMAS

Don't let the look fool you. Blond, yes, but not dumb. Youthful, yes, but not naive. Butch, yes, but not insensitive.

At 25, Vincent Thomas is a man who knows what he wants and is determined to get it. He's a construction worker days, a bartender nights. Odd jobs to pay the rent while he pursues the career he really wants: directing films. Writing them, too.

"My writing is terse, cinematic, if you will," Vincent explains. "Maybe it's the result of being raised with television, constantly bombarded with images. So I tend to be a very visual person."

and what kind of movies would he make? "Of course I'm very interested in erotica, especially male-male erotica," he says with a near blushing smile, "and I think there's a real challenge in that area. I suspect there's a market for sensual, intelligent, original films that are a turn-on as well. I'd like to make a contribution to that genre."

Would he perform in his own films?

"I wouldn't say no if asked," he laughs. "In my own daydreams, I'm frequently a leading figure, just like everyone else. Most of the time I like what I see, and I imagine others would like seeing it too."

So let's take a poll. How many of you Advocate MEN readers would like to see green-eyed Vincent Thomas in a "sensual, intelligent, original film" that is a "turn-on as well?" Drop a note to Advocate MEN. We'll get the word back to Vincent.
