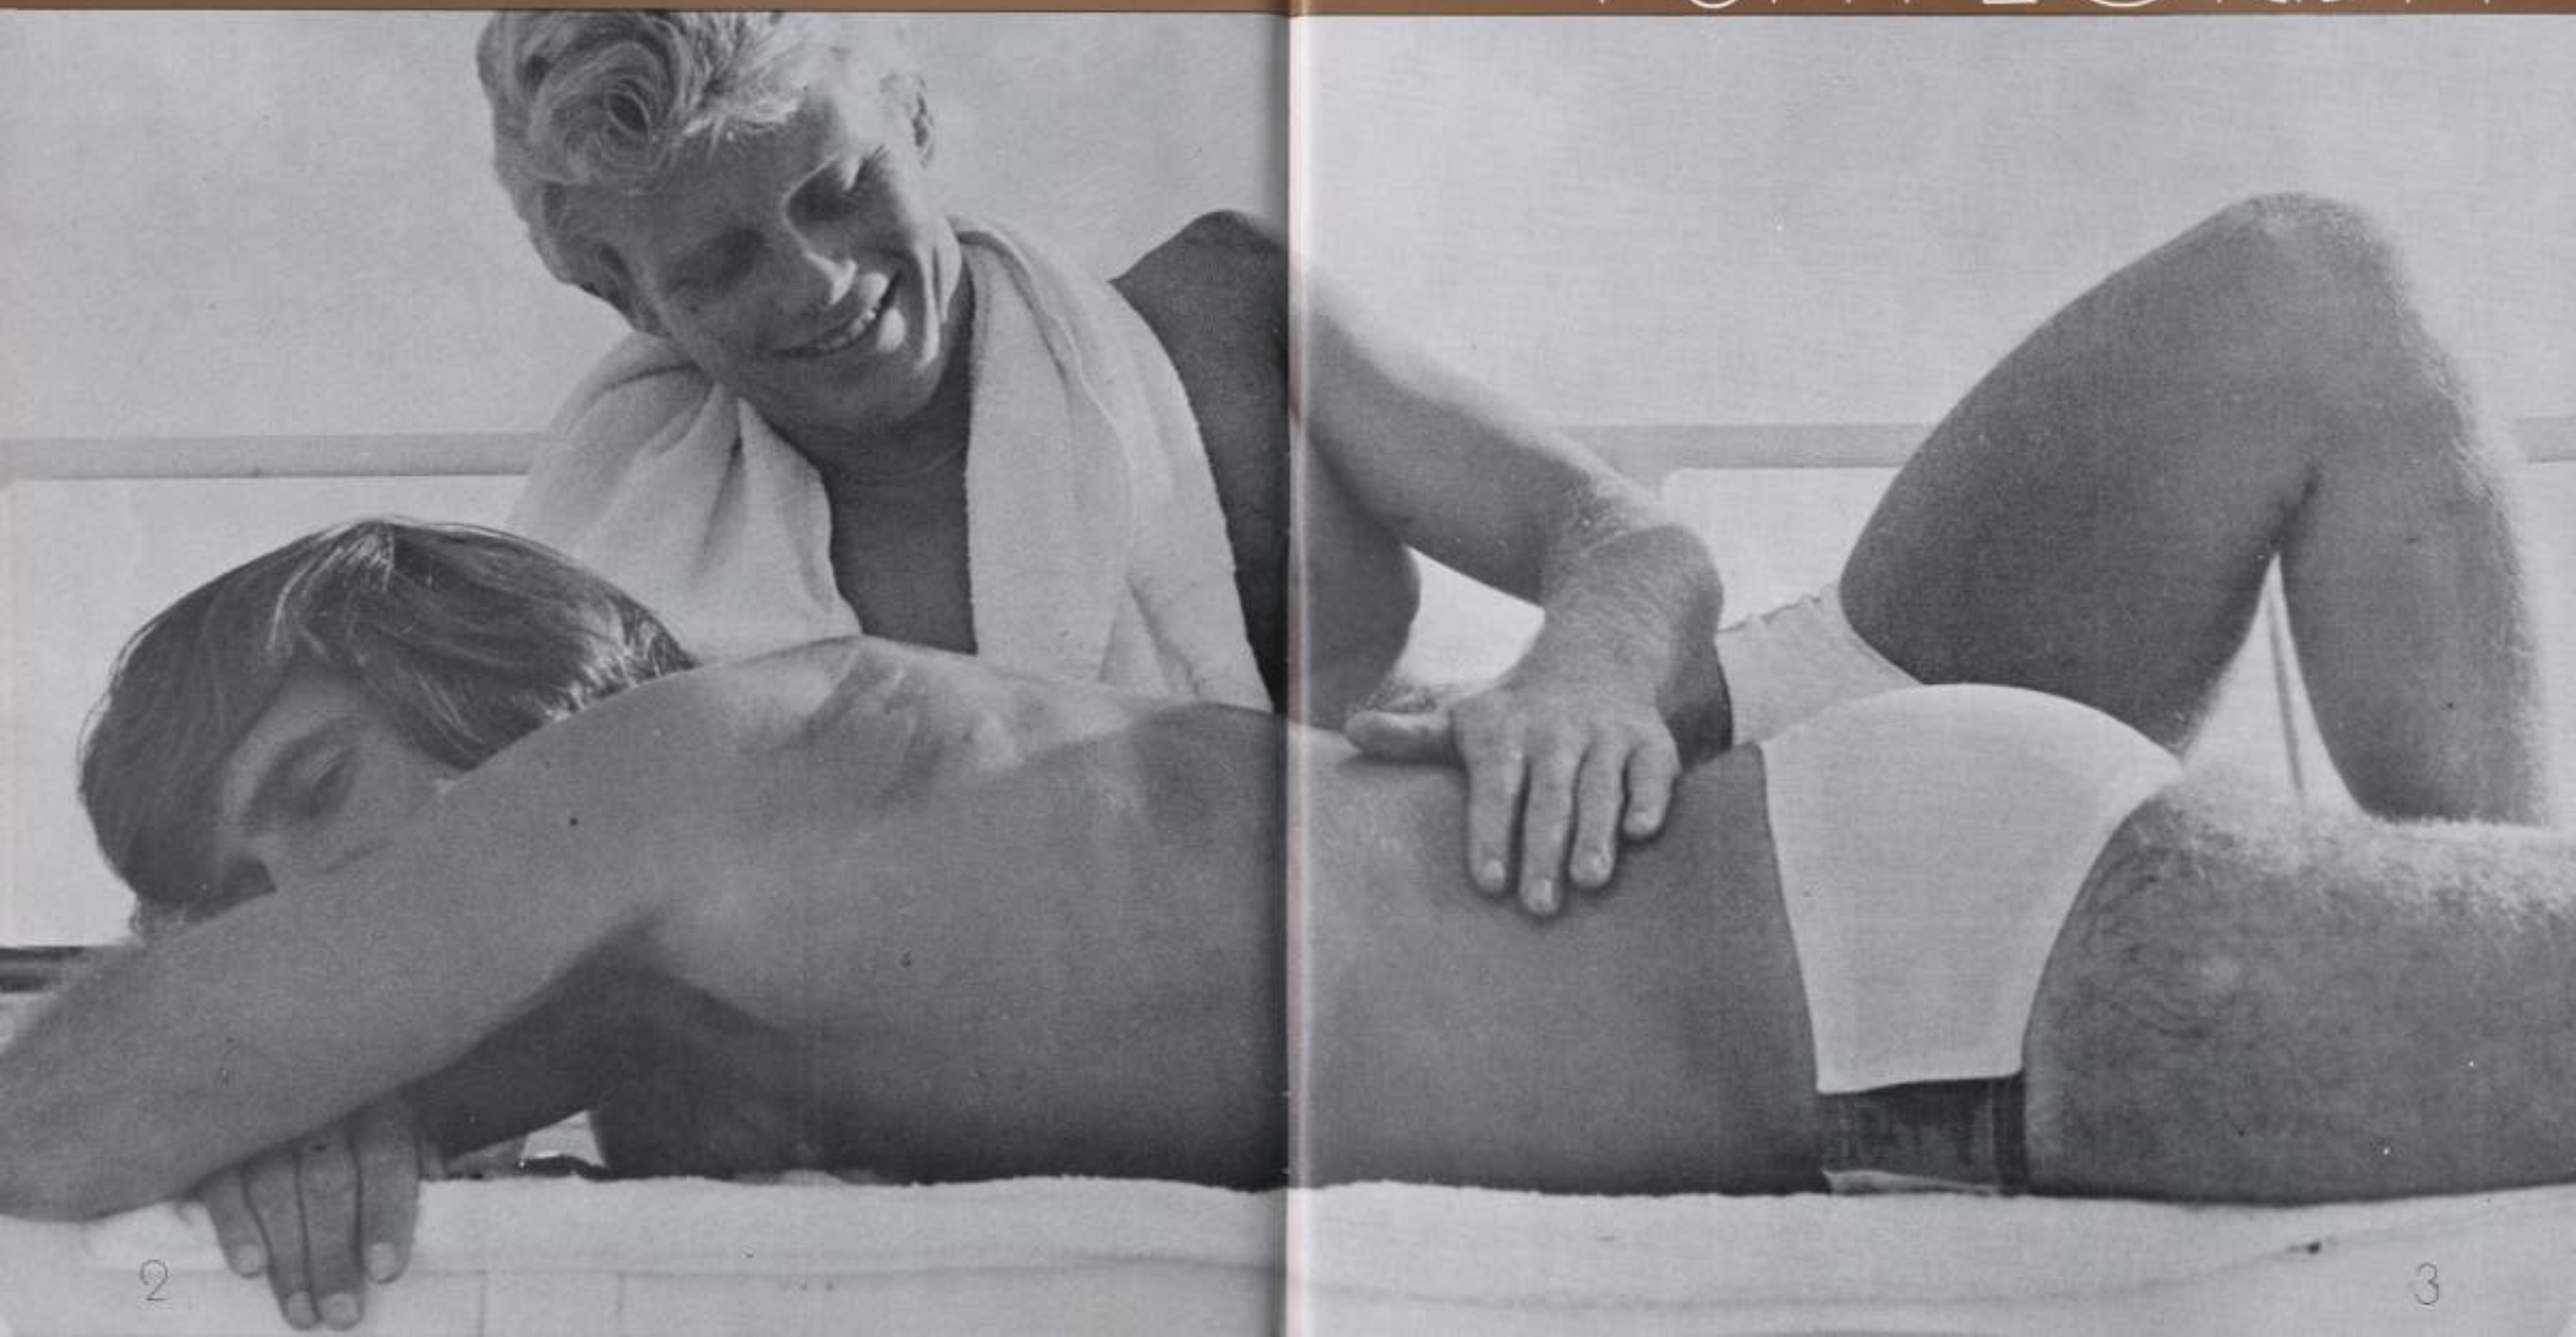
WELCOME TO FUN FLORIDA



by LEIGH SPEAR

South Florida is neither the Promised Land, nor the Garden of Eden, though physically it may seem to be. For most people straight or gay, it's a haven, an escape from the rigors of northern living. The lush tropical topography and comfortable climate, blend with a casually elegant lifestyle that is easily affordable.

This atmosphere creates a pleasant environment for the gay person to live and work in, but he must not mistake this situation for liberalism and acceptance, since there is still no legislation protecting his sexual preferences as there is in Washington, D.C. It is true that "Fairy Hunting" no longer has a licensed season, but there is always the remote possibility of running into a bored cop. This probably means that you will be subjected to the embarassment of a tongue lashing on the sins of being a sissy. This treatment may include just a little push and shove, but your Givenchy original won't be wrinkled, nor will your head feel the weight of a billy club.

Therefore, unless you're horny enough to be up to no good in a tea room, or caught on your knees in the sparse reeds at Dania Beach, or get your privates stuck in a glory hole, the chances of spending a few frantic hours in the tank on some spurious charge are practically nil.

There are really no active gay political groups in Florida, except for Florida Atlantic University in Boca Raton, where there are a few political upstarts who should start up more. The religious needs of the gay community are handled most effectively by the M.C.C. (Rev. Davis in Miami, and Rev. Wilson in Ft. Lauderdale).

Tourism is our largest source of income in South Florida and with the exception of gambling, there are all the diversions any tourist could want — everything from the Chonch Train in Key West, to Disneyworld a few hundred miles to the north in Orlando, to say nothing of beautiful and in some cases, primitive stretches of beach all along the way.

KEY WEST

Starting at the bottom, which is usually a good place to start, we'll begin our blueprint with Key West, the southernmost point of the continental United States. One immediately gets the feeling that he has left the state, the rustic, old fashioned charm of the architecture, make it appear an area untouched by time.

There are two very good resorts to stay at — The Key Lodge Motel and the Key Lime cottages. Although different in appearance, they both maintain that aura of Key West charisma, and the proprietors are unfailingly cordial. While there are others, Delmonico's and the Italian Village are two noteworthy bars.

As mentioned before, the Chonch Train is an interesting and unusual ride, that will give you a view of the island you would not ordinarily get to see. And if you haven't tried deep sea fishing, do it, it can be a rewarding and delightful day.

Before venturing forth at night it is best to inquire about a place, especially if it hasn't been recommended in any gay guide, because Key West is also very much a sailor's town, both in and out of uniform. Remember some people get hives from seafood, in the case of the gay misadventurer he could get lumps.

MIAMI BEACH

With the exception of Las Vegas, no other resort area in the country has received as much notoriety and acclaim as Miami Beach. But, alas, today it is a picture in contrasts — archaic, fading South Beach, leads to the posh and elegant atmosphere of Collins Avenue from fortieth through sixtieth street. Twenty-first street beach is demonstrative of these contrasts, on one side can be seen Miami's most outrageous queens sipping beer and munching hamburgers; on the other are the senior citizens with brown paper bags full of soggy, homemade sandwiches and stale fruit, and probably a jug of prune juice.

Most of the bars on the Beach are seedy and dank. Occasionally there is evidence of an effort to spruce up, but it boils down to a coat of cheap paint or some wallpaper remnants. Maintaining a thin facade and hustling the tourist buck has long been the attitude, and it's an idea that doesn't die easily. Oddly enough, all the gay spots are huddled in two areas — around Alton Road and 17th street, and on twenty-first street a few blocks from the beach. The Mayflower has undergone some major house cleaning and they're trying very hard to extend the red carpet. At Miss Kay's Lounge one can always be assured of a kind word from the lady herself. She's a veteran and not about to lose a customer, entertainment and buffet are offered on alternate Sundays. The Pin-Up has been in business for a long, long time; so it's exactly what you'd expect it to be. The top of the beach, is the Salamander at Ambassador III, a beautifully done up disco with fabulous psychodelic lighting, and a great entertainment policy.

COCONUT GROVE

The Bohemian atmosphere and artsy-craftsy look of this section of Miami make it reminiscent of its northern cousin — the Village, and, indeed, it is sometimes affectionately referred to as Greenwich Village with palm trees. It is home to many artists and artisans, who manage to find reason for outdoor shows a few times in the year. It is also home to Miami's oldest and only legitimate theatre — the Coconut Grove Playhouse, which often features productions by major companies.

The two bars in the Grove, the Hamlet and Sebastian's both reflect this ambiance. They are places where one can let it all hang out, and enjoy good stimulating conversation.

MIAMI

Downtown Miami is not necessarily the most desirable place to visit at night. Suffice it to say that the streets and bars are full of midnight cowboys; so, if that is your dish, make sure you park in a brightly lit lot. Close to the downtown area are the Rack and the Ramrod, though tame by New York standards, both are leather and levi places, and what you don't find in one, you will in the other.

A little further north, on Biscayne Boulevard is the Cactus Lounge, a marvelous place, featuring good drinks and wonderful food at very low prices. It's a marvel how they do it in these times, so, even if you're not shopping at Jordan Marsh, located nearby, drop in anyway.

Located much further south are the Bachelors II and the Warehouse VIII (Roman numerals must be the thing down there). The Bachelor's II offers the best of three worlds – good food in a sophisticated restaurant, a piano bar lounge, and dancing upstairs. The Warehouse VIII is always packed and always fun. Their sporadic show policy is unusual and they are among the few to provide live entertainment. The two hosts are great guys who have recently opened an excellent restaurant, the Candlelight, which is not too far from their Mother Temple – speaking of the Mother Temple, a good coat of paint inside and out wouldn't hurt a bit and it would do wonders for anyone looking at it with a daylight hang-over.

The "Y" Lounge is a most attractive and newly refurbished place that has a lot to offer, and it is the nocturnal mainstay of the Crown and Lion resort hotel. With something that good downstairs, why go further?

RESORTS

There are five places of lodging catering to gay clientele and they extend from Miami to West Palm Beach. By far the best is the Crown and Lion, everything smacks of being new and modern even the oversized beds and color T.V. sets. There is a rooftop pool and sauna, plus a delicious restaurant. It's three stories high with sheltered or outdoor parking, and is a short drive from anywhere one would want to go.

The Marlin Beach Hotel in Fort Lauderdale is easily identified, it's painted a bilious shade of hot rose beige that makes it look like a building done up in bad drag. While the Marlin Beach may be the place to stay, it is definitely the place to go. The Poop Deck, the Restaurant/Disco/Bar in the Marlin Beach serves up fine food with the best music in South Florida. Of more importance, it is continually frequented by the prettiest people in Florida. The beach in front of the hotel is rapidly replacing Dania as South Florida's premiere gay beach.

Other good bets in Lauderdale are either the Galt Riviera or Bela Mar Motels. They are impeccably kept, and you are greeted and treated warmly.

One rip-off would be the Southwind Motel in West Palm Beach. It erroneously advertises itself as a resort. It isn't. It's just a motel with a pool, and nowhere near the beach.

HALLANDALE – HOLLYWOOD

Who would believe that such a relatively small area could have so many gay bars crowded into it? All this and outdoor cruising on Young Circle too! De Andria's Bla Bla Cafe is the only gay Italian restaurant I know of here, and the food is outstanding.

How Keith Landon manages to keep the roof or the walls attached to Keith's Cruise Room is a mystery, it's the boomingest most frenzied place in town. In addition to shows, Keith continually runs the kookiest anatomy contests ever thunk up. Having successfully pulled off a Mr. Buns and Mr. Basket contest, one must wonder at his next idea. Will it be the Mr. Sphincter contest, the Mr. Nipples contest, the Mr. Truss contest, or the Mr. Hemmorrhoidectomy contest (this purely for the simplicity of unveiling the beauties of a new rectum – who says you can't make a silk purse out of a sow's ear?). It will probably be the Mr. Larynx contest, if he can get Linda Lovelace to judge.

It is difficult to achieve a paradox, i.e., to be sophisticated and urbane while being merry-hellish and downright folksy-funky at the same time. TeeJay has done just that at TeeJay's Lounge. It's a place where you can find everything you want and be yourself – sing at the piano bar if you wish, or dance up a storm. Definitely a winner, friendly and intimate and open till 5:00 AM.

With our entertainment scene consisting mostly of drag (everything from a moulting plume and a tarnished sequin to expensive high camp), all bravos, huzzahs and judoes are due Jerry Fitzpatrick of the Executive Club. He's bringing down live acts from New York, and recently scored well with the Sister Brothers – John Paul Hudson and Franklin Underwood – who have a unique and dynamite act. They were also booked on the first gay cruise ever to sail out of these waters. What a floating screamer that must have been.

THE TUBS

Usually the Queen of the Vapor Emporiums in any city is the Club Baths, and it is no different in Miami.

This does not by any means say that they're the only game in town. The Regency in Miami is fun. Duke, the propietor is a colorful guy, who is interesting to listen to, and has done more politically for the homosexual community in Florida, than they will ever know.

The Locker Room in Hollywood is succesful and crowded, and like everything else Keith does – done well.

The warmth of their personalities is reflected in Don and Doug's Gym in Ft. Lauderdale. If it can be said of a baths that it is homey, then this place is. One can even find an occasional piece of downright non belligerent trade.

GENERAL INFORMATION

Casual dress is acceptable everywhere in South Florida. Anything goes from cut-offs, to dressy sportswear, to pants so tight they resemble tattoos with bell bottoms.

Always call ahead to check on closing times (there is a Directory of all places further on in this issue). Zoning laws are rather erratic and wierd, and can change from street to street. Truly, there may be a midnight closing on one side of the block and a five A.M. on the other.

Florida law is especially protective of minors. Don't commit the cardinal sin. Chicken is cheaper and more digestible when purchased in super markets. The price you pay for the other kind can be extremely expensive, it can cost you some time in the slammer.

A reminder to our prurient friends from the North who wish to attend one of the many beefcake contests held down here. Raincoats in Florida are conspicuous, so, you'll have to find some other way to enjoy yourself while ogling the gorgeous hunks as they parade confidently by.

A gay best seller! Imagine the wheels that began to spin in the minds of American publishers when Patricia Nell Warren's THE FRONT RUNNER (Morrow, $7.95) turned up recently on the San Francisco best seller lists. Here comes an exciting novel treating a previously unspeakable subject — the gay athlete — and it is frankly partisan to gays. The book doesn't apologize. It doesn't pity. And it sells like crazy.

It is a phenomenon of book publishing that minority interests and special tastes make best sellers. It doesn't take the universal enthusiasm of all book buyers. On the contrary, many books become best sellers solely because they appeal to a special audience. And we gay people today are exactly such an audience. We are vast in numbers, we are (many of us) readers by habit, we have a close common concern which can be written about in many different ways, and we can (again, many of us) afford to buy regularly.

Ms. Warren's good book is thus even better as a messenger of things to come. Because if and when our own gay books appear regularly as best sellers, it will be one more sign (cultural historians please note) that we the gay people have made an integral place for ourselves in American life.

The Front Runner tells an unusual but plausible story set sometime in the near future. Three top college track stars are expelled for homosexuality. They are taken on at a small school where track coach Harlan Brown works hard to conceal his own gay past. Nonetheless Brown falls in love with Billy Sive, the best of the three, and together they fight the prejudices of the school, the public and athletic officialdom to realize Billy's dream of the Olympics.

The lovemaking in the novel is beatiful — finely etched, erotic, human in its descriptions of how gay men react to one another's bodies. That and Ms. Warren's clear knowledge and

The Front Runner is a novel of gay hope. Gore Vidal's new glamor dust put-on MYRON (Random House, $6.95) is a high camp raspberry.

Get ready: Myra is back.

Fans of the original Myra Breckinridge, whom Vidal unveiled to a dumbstruck world in his 1968 novel of that name, will remember her as an unquenchable spirit of transsexual camp, a passionate shadow being who usurps and inhabits the body of an unassuming college student named Myron. After a transsexual operation Myron is revealed as the luciously female Myra, who lusts to conquer Hollywood and through Hollywood the world. But evil befalls Myra, and Myron reasserts himself to regain possession of the transsexualized body. He becomes a successful Chinese caterer in the San Fernando valley.

Fate (and Gore Vidal) now give Myra her second chance. One night Myron falls through the giant screen of his TV set while watching the late night re-runs in the downstairs rumpus room. To his confusion, he lands plop in the middle of the MGM back lot in 1948 where Lola Montez is filming her sultry sizzler Siren of Babylon. And there he stays. Numerous others have fallen through their TV screens during re-runs of Siren of Babylon, he learns, among them a mad queer-hating cook named Whittaker and a middle-aged male hair-burner from Westchester who prefers the name of Maude. Invisible shades, they flit about on the movie set in a never-ending round of personal intrigue.

What more is needed to awaken the spirit of Myra? Thereby ensues a titanic high camp struggle between Myra and Myron for possession of their over-occupied body, with Myra doing outrageous drag up and down the Metro lot at night and Myron, dazed and confused, trying to save face and find the exit by day. The ending is too complex for this short account. Suffice it to say that through a ledgerdemain understood by Gore Vidal Alone, Myra finally turns into Lola Montez.

Like the previous book, Myron is packed with movie star glamor, with you-bitch-darling elegance, and endless clever tricks of viewpoint, identity and disguise. The mixture is still exciting, but it's not as breathtaking as it was when Vidal published Myra Breckinridge in 1968. In those pre-gay lib times, the spirit of camp lived in angry isolation, and elegant escapism seemed the workable solution. Today gay activism has cleared the air and given solid hope to a few down-to-earth ambitions for the gay minority. Myra's style now seems faded and old-hat, but not her political message.

Vidal's wicked joke is that Myra has a true mission. Since people reproduce too much, the world food supply is rapidly falling short of the world population supply. Myra is obsessed with a plan to give all the world's males the same transsexual operation she has had. She wants to convert each and every stud into a "happy, fun-loving Amazon." This will control world population growth, she reasons, and prevent a cataclysmic world war over food. "It is plain that nature and I are on a collision course," says sympathy with how gay men feel and live in a hostile society are to me the strong points of her novel. The book is always compelling. But when one begins to ask why it holds us so, the pleasure goes a little flat. Because The Front Runner succeeds through playing on an old prejudice we all seem still to hold, i.e., that it might be expected for a timid, ordinary man to be a queer, but for an athlete, a he-man, a star to be queer — that's news. I don't buy it. Show me the writer who understands the love, the belief, the tenacity of ordinary gay men and women who will never be superstars, and I'll show you a real writer of the gay experience.

Myra. "Happily, nature is at a disadvantage, for nature is mindless and I am pure mind."

This is the tongue-in-cheek message of Myron. There is a second message too, one of which Vidal doesn't seem aware. An author who publicly declares himself to be bisexual and who writes comic novels about a man who keeps turning into a woman and then back into a man (and is never stable in either condition) seems to be an author writing about his own sexual ambiguity. It is clear that Vidal idolizes Myra and hates Whittaker, the queer-baiting cook who frantically fights his own homosexuality and is ready to stick his butcher knife up the cunt of any woman who upsets him. But when you get right down to it, it's none too sane either to think you can save the world through mass castration. Myra is just as crazy as Whittaker, but Vidal doesn't seem to know it.

Bisexuality is OK. Does Vidal understand that?

If you liked Myra Breckinridge, you'll like Myron. Right or wrong, Vidal is one of the most piercing and funny literary minds of his time.

THE BLUE BOOKSHELF

BY CADE WARE

Richard Amory's WILLOW SONG (Freeway Press, paperback $1.95) is also a fantasy, but of a very different spirit. This one — by the author of Song of the Loon — is about Indians and fantasy men, and it's full of sex.

Strickland works in a computer room. He is a Californian, half Indian. He doesn't realize that the beautiful, mysterious guy he drinks beer with one night in a Santa Clara gay bar is in fact a forest man — a kind of secret spirit who lives in the nearby mountains with Indians and other wandering "tree men," all of whom are gay. His name is Will, and he has come to find and love Strickland because he knows that the Indian side of Strickland's nature is very special.

Strickland leaves everything behind and goes to live with Will among the gay tree men in the forest. But not before they make hot love. And they do that quite often. The tree men are a raunchy crew — very carnal and sex-minded as far as eternal spirits go — and they're all well built.

Strickland has new and curious adventures among his strange friends. He sits at the knee of his Indian grandfather and learns about the Indian gods and spirit people. He finds a second and even more important love. And finally he meets a special destiny for himself among the sacred meanings of the Indian past.

If I appear to parody Willow Song, it's because a bare-bones account of this story at moments seems hard to take seriously. But Mr. Amory is able to make us take the book seriously because of the fierce and original way he paints word pictures — especially of bodies and sex. How's this for being screwed? :

The finger felt good, and Strickland knew waves of warm shock in his loins and hipes. Then, no finger, just hairy knees between his own and the low voice whispering "Alor, alder man . . ." and bronze-hairy wrists at his shoulders. Strong fingers, blunt-tipped . . .

It came in; Wilghe sighed "It's been so long, Alor!" but the pain-not-pain was an explosion that caused Strickland to draw a quick inrush of breath and see dripping blue behind his eyelids. "Wait!" he gasped, and Wilghe waited.

Strickland panted, hoping for the pain to go away, but it only became more bearable. The dripping blue on the pillowcase became magenta then plum blossom spreading over mustard yellow. "Go on," he breathed.

It came in, like a long, slick, wide, barkless tree trunk up his gut . . .

One blind, pink, one-eyed cock crowing, spitting pale opals into intestinal blackness.

Wilghe groaned, digging his fingers into Strickland's shoulders, and flattened his belly against waiting twin muscular tension.

Five opalescent streaks flashed somewhere against brilliant blue.

Makuikuauhtli!

Flashing, trailing white across the skies of Itwitlán, and they exploded — and coalesced into giant pearls, and then timmed in the eveing air, slowly.

Richard Amory fills this story with all the beauty, imagery and lore of the California forests. He builds a world of oak and alder, gully, cliff and ravine, of mustard, racoon and redwood, of Indian gods and secret spirits, of circling sky-high hawks, of warm, darkly downey, hair-touched male human bodies. The earth and wind are dry and cool. The touch is rough and longing. The colors are the turquoises, magentas and yellows of the West. The mood is mysterious, clear-eyed and always erotic.

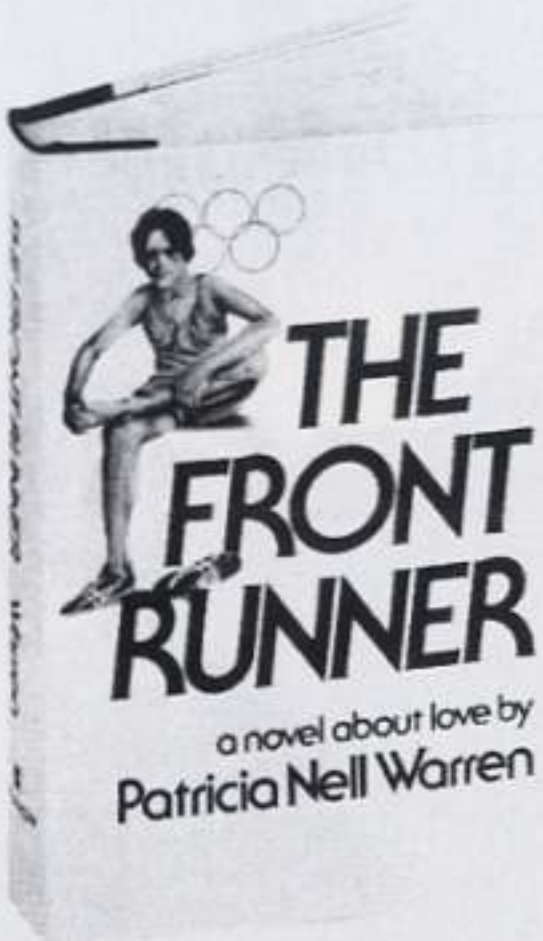
DESTINED TO BE THE MOST UNUSUAL LOVE STORY OF THE '70's



One of the most moving love stories ever written — bound to be read and discussed and taken to heart all over the world. Its narrator is a conservative, ex-marine track coach hiding from the world at an obscure little college. One day his safe and comfortable life is interrupted by the arrival of a brilliant young runner, Billy Sive.

Dear Blue Boys: You have a whole new year ahead in which to love and learn and progress. You must remember that all three are important. For each of you there is the possibility of success, fun, pleasure, and even failure ahead. Each of you will be given opportunities, placed under stress and required to choose between alternatives. It is up to you to make the wise choices.

Remember, you live in a world of people as fully intent on their own success and pleasure as you are on yours. Be aware of them. See their needs and they are more likely to see yours. The ones who learn to understand others are more apt to find that the world is a full and happy place. The most unhappy people are those who are only aware of themselves. Now a word on how to understand and appreciate two of the most complex Blue Boys of the Zodiac, Aquarius and Pices:

ASTARTE'S STAR SHOTS

Although it's not commonly known to even the keenest astrology buffs: there are parts of the body that are characteristic weakness for the various signs, as this month's horoscope illustrates. Now find your own!

AQUARIUS

JANUARY 20 – FEBRUARY 18

This highly impressionable and impressive Blue Boy can be managed if with a touch so light he doesn't notice, but let him see he's being controlled and you will find he is suddenly uncontrollable. He is a paradox in almost every way, which undoubtedly contributes to his fascination. He is one of the most unorthodox of all the sun signs, yet at heart he is conventional; he is more progressive than any other Blue Boy, yet he is set in his personal ways. He is most sociable but craves and must have ample solitude. He must have companionship yet will not conform to obtain it. He absolutely cannot be possessed, so don't try. The only way to handle Aquarian is to love him and be sufficiently interesting and challenging that this fascinating, imaginative, idealistic, and civilized lover will abandon his current cause long enough to seek you out. It will always be worth it, for association with an Aquarian is synonymous with adventure. He couldn't be dull if he tried.

PISCES

FEBRUARY 19 – MARCH 20

This is the most complex of all the Blue Boys. Sensitive, deeply emotional, frequently insecure, this intuitive, imaginative dreamer if constructively inclined is capable of great accomplishment. He is generous, generally considerate and has one of the sharpest wits of all the signs. His sense of humor comes as a surprise from this often retiring, moody and supersensitive BB. Don't rush him. He is so modest he'll think you have an angle. If you have an angle, forget it, he is so intuitive he'll see right through you. My advice is to ingratiate yourself. Let him get to know you. Build your friendship step by step. Above all, watch out for those tender nerve ends of his. A Pisces Blue Boy can be hurt when you thought you were just describing the weather.

Once you have allayed his fears and proven you are trustworthy, you are on your way to capturing the enduring love of one of the best-natured, most deeply loving, easy-to-get-along-with Blue Boys of all. Be patient in the process, however, because it takes a whimsical Pisces awhile to figure out exactly what he wants. He's deeply loyal once he does, so all the effort will pay off.

ARIES

MARCH 21 — APRIL 19TH

FEBRUARY — A great beginning of a good year for you, Aries. You should be socializing and meeting new acquaintances and laying the groundwork for a pyrotechnic love affair about mid-year! Old memories may revive and now and then you may even become sentimental. Start projects you have in mind now — it's a good time for beginnings all around. Hold down on the pocket book and see how rich you can feel by not spending. Be careful in the home early in the month to avoid pesky accidents. The people you know should help you get ahead this month — but be nice to be sure they'll feel like it.

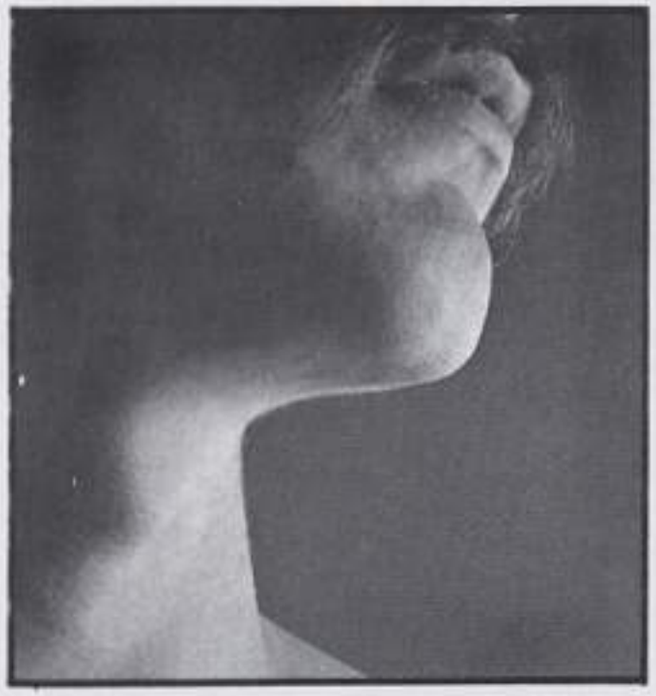
MARCH — Venus is with you Aries, maybe that's why for the most part you are still warm and responsive and pulling others to you magnetically. Even with Venus on your side, you Rams have to watch yourself so that energetic drive that propels you forward doesn't lead to bruises for those you really want to caress. You can be lucky in love, money and career matters this month but be very, very careful when you drive or ride.

TAURUS

APRIL 20 — MAY 20TH

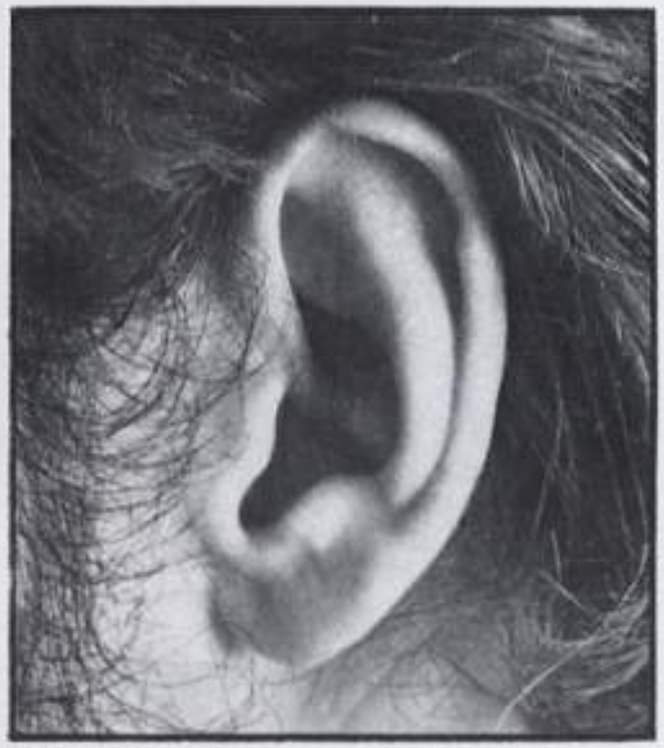
FEBRUARY — This is a good month for your career, Taurus. If things didn't go too well at the end of '74, cheer up because they are looking brighter. The only thing that can do you in now is that you are feeling a little too aggressive and quarrelsome.Cool it and you are much more apt to get what you want. Bulls often feel others are out to get them. What I'm saying is you have a little tendency to feel paranoid and whenever you feel that way you tend to create what you feared. Trust a little more or at least hide your feelings better. When you don't, you harm yourselves immeasurably.

MARCH — Until the last few days of the month you will most likely keep romance on the back burner. Until then you are still concerned with career, business and money matters. Keep your temper and control those reactions I told you about in February. What you do now is tremendously important to your future. Even if you don't get what you are after immediately, if you are cooperative you will win out, as do most bulls in the long run. Starting late March you are going to feel more romantic and be delightfully lucky about the whole thing.



GEMINI

MAY 21 — JUNE 20TH



FEBRUARY — A quieter month, Gemini, and you can use one. They don't often happen to you because you usually manage to keep things in a whirl. Irritations and frustrations and people who have been annoying you seem to fade away this month. You are so much quieter and calmer this month it's hard to recognize you as a bonafide Gemini. Stay loose because someone of importance may be evaluating you. Romance comes and goes this month but when it's good, it's very, very good. Enjoy.

MARCH — You are entering a long period favorable to your career or business. Any exertions you make are apt to be successful. Take positive efforts now and expect favorable response. You can even have fun while you get ahead. I know that's good news for a Gemini. Don't expect your lovers to remain agreeable this month because they won't be. Stay sweet and thoughtful about the whole thing and you can bring them around. Above all stay above board in your dealings. You'll get caught if you don't. Check on health matters to be sure all is well.

CANCER

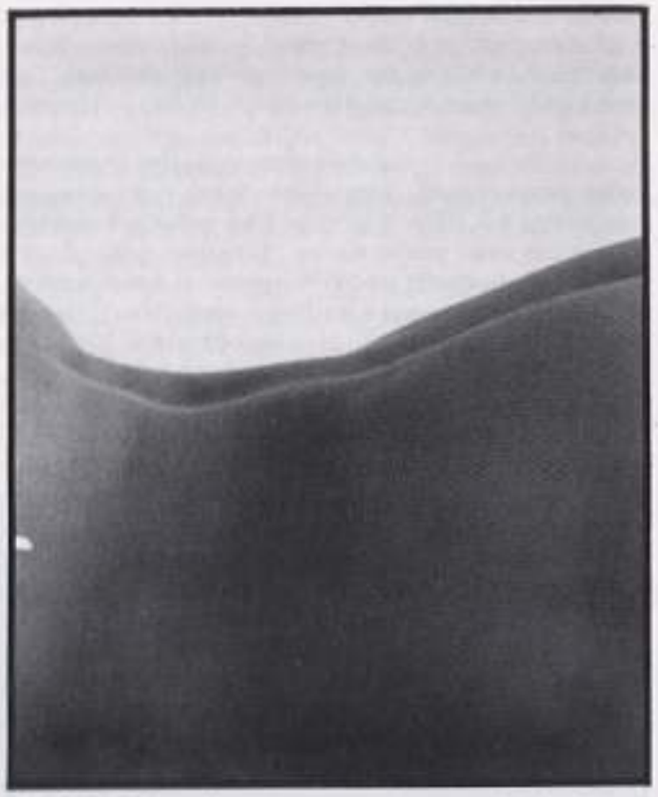
JUNE 21 – JULY 23RD

FEBRUARY – This is a month I almost tossed a coin on, Cancer, because it can fall almost any way. The surface can be smooth for the Cancer Blue Boy so that he doesn't see the iceberg in his path – so navigate carefully. You, on the other hand, could meet the lover of your dreams. Some investments can be profitable and other financial dealings just not get off the ground. If you deal with writing or publishing you could be quite successful this month. Most financial matters, however, will be frustrating. Take care of your physical self because you are a little accident prone this month.

MARCH – Finances seem to smooth out if you just sit tight and don't do anything different on the 1st Thursday and the third Friday. Otherwise things are looking decidedly up. Research out your dealings before putting your dollars on the line. It can pay off in the long run. Romance is a bit "iffy" just now. It's not that temptation isn't going to come your way – it's that you might succumb to the wrong one. Take a self-improvement course, Cancer, and use all that freshly generated energy to good purpose instead of getting into trouble. A better day will come for such things.

LEO

JULY 23 – AUGUST 22ND



FEBRUARY – I'm glad you are not afraid of hard work, Leo because that's what you should expect this month. Just remember to relax now and then, and just once in a while to play a little. It wouldn't be nice for a Leo to become a dull Blue Boy. You may be depending on others this month who won't turn out as dependable as you counted on. You will manage. Finances should be easier and that always makes life more pleasant. The reason I haven't mentioned romance is because you really don't have time for it this month.

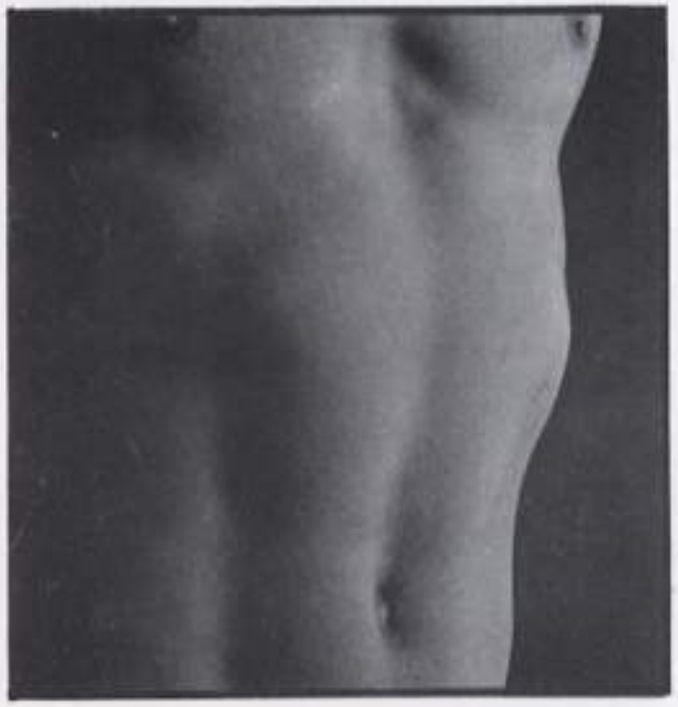
MARCH – Maybe you've been working too hard, Leo, because this month you are apt to be irritable, jumpy, overactive and maybe just downright nasty. This in turn increases the probability of quarrels, break-ups and accidents. Personal as well as business relationships could be involved. You are usually a fun Blue Boy, Leo but I guess you are just going to have to take the heat for awhile and control your temper. The reason I haven't mentioned romance is because you aren't in the mood.

VIRGO

AUGUST 23 – SEPTEMBER 22ND

FEBRUARY – It's getting depressing. I have even less good news for you, Virgo than I did for Cancer or Leo. You are apt to be burdened with new responsibilities at a time when you are emotionally confused and in a phase of bad judgement. It's not likely your associates will be too helpful in seeing things clearly. I can only say, Virgo, hide your reactions to others for a little while because your attitude may change later. You do not want to burn bridges now. Just be patient and do the best you can under the circumstances. Influences won't be negative forever. You could have one good financial break this month, but it will be luck if you do.

MARCH – Keep your eyes on the long goal, Virgo because influences are not any better than they were in February. This is a struggle period for you but remember, pushing against a resistent object makes one's muscles strong. That's what negative influences are for. You, Virgo, must learn patience and tolerance. When you have much of both, such trying periods are easier to handle. I sometimes think the unfair stresses Blue Boys are put through end up by making them stronger, more flexible, and better able to see life clearly than their counterparts.



LIBRA

SEPTEMBER 23 – OCTOBER 22ND

FEBRUARY – The heats off a little on you, Libra. This month will be so light-hearted you might become giddy and fritter it away. All the Libra charm is going for you now and there will be lovers aplenty, if you want them. But don't forget, one can lose that bird in the hand if he goes frolicking after the whole covey. Express yourself, Libra, in your most creative fashion. Take definite steps to get ahead and don't be too extravagant. Enjoy a financial respite without falling back into the red by over spending.

MARCH – It will take more effort to get ahead this month, Libra – but it still can be done. Money will be a little harder to come by and you may have demands placed on it. You are still magnetic but this is not a good month for really permanent decisions regarding your love life. Wait awhile for that, as you could get burnt this month. I guess the overall theme is that things are still pretty good – you'll have to try harder, that's all.

SCORPIO

OCTOBER 23 – NOVEMBER 21ST

FEBRUARY – Consolidate your position this month, Scorpio. You can get ahead but you will have to work for it. You don't mind demands being made on you because you are used to working hard. You are apt to be open and responsive to friends and lovers this month. That means it will be a warm and happy time because there is usually a crowd standing by for just such Scorpio moments. Be warm and open and watch that sharp tongue of yours. It's often the fly in the ointment of those who love you. Peruse legal documents carefully before signing.

MARCH – Money could become tight this month and you become irascible. You do become tense and irritable when there is pressure on the pocketbook. It's not good for your health so take it easy and have a check up. Despite all this, you can do well in your career. The best things you have going for you are your talent and your imagination. It's certainly not your temper. Remember, all a lover has to do is pack his bag and leave. You are the last person to want that so look ahead and avoid. The last word isn't worth it.

SAGITTARIUS

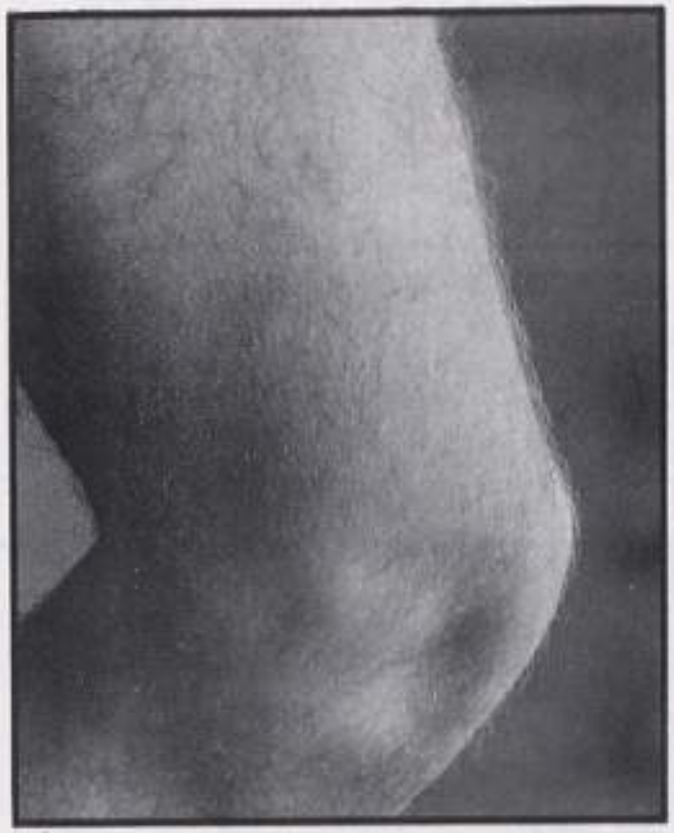
NOVEMBER 22 – DECEMBER 21ST

FEBRUARY – It's down to business for you this month, Saggitarius. Resist a tendency to be picky, picky. You are a thinker and a doer, but my dear, you can drive everyone around you crazy in the process. I know I've told you this before but since Saggitarians rarely listen, I find it necessary to repeat. Speak about listening – if you have anything legal to do this month, listen to your lawyer or get advice. You and your lover (or lovers) should get along great this month if you will avoid being restless. Control those itchy feet and this could be a most happy period for you, romantically speaking – and a warm one.

MARCH – This is a good month to get organized and pin down your expenditures instead of throwing your money around. Be ready for future pressures and opportunities to forge ahead. You really don't like months like this because pushing back the frontiers is more your thing. Care and patience are two things you must learn before you become the YOU that can be. Be cooperative and patient with lovers. It makes you happier in the long run. By the way, opportunity for romance is not lacking.

CAPRICORN

DECEMBER 22 — JANUARY 19TH



FEBRUARY — UMMM, Calling all Blue Boys. Capricorns are feeling aggressive, dynamic, domineering and ardent. Be a little discrete but otherwise enjoy all those wonderful feelings. Your positiveness will affect your work situation favorably if you will avoid a Capricornian tendency to run roughshod over anyone who gets in your way. Remember you always pay for that. You must learn to be aware of the rights of others. You tend to forget because you want things so badly.

MARCH — A more quiet month, Capricorn, which is good because you probably need a rest. Consolidate relationships with the special people in your life — enjoy them and be especially considerate so they will enjoy you. Be quiet financially as well as emotionally. Consolidation all around is the keynote. Quiet, thoughtful times can be especially good times. If used correctly they can be periods when foundations are laid to help one over stressful periods when they come.

AQUARIUS

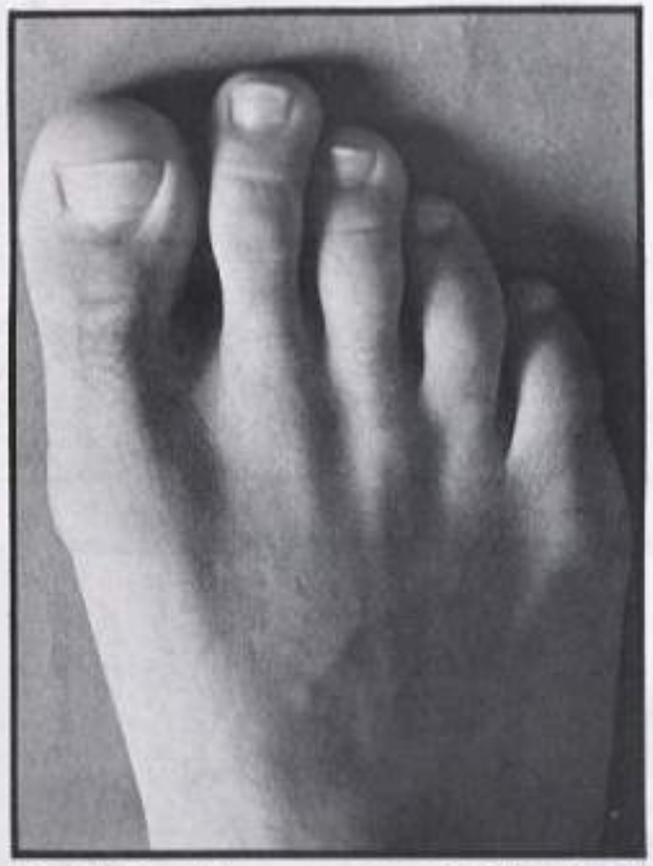
JANUARY 20 — FEBRUARY 18TH

FEBRUARY — It's a month you'll like, Aquarius — a lot of action, change, developments. You can have fun and make money, too. Your ideas on life and the whole ball of wax may take a sudden turn you had not anticipated. You are bright, bright, bright this month and that's downright bright. Your creative efforts should pay off. Don't procrastinate about your love life. Make up your mind and act! Be open and above board at all times.

MARCH — You are apt to be busy and therefore a little impatient so watch your temper. You can't afford it because it will give you a set-back. You must become as organized and efficient as possible because you are entering a long phase which will involve much hard work. Lots of luck, lovers, because when an Aquarian is mentally stimulated and busy he just might forget you are all alone by the telephone.

PISCES

FEBRUARY 19 — MARCH 20TH



FEBRUARY — It's a very good month, Pisces. Go out and meet the people — the one you want to meet will be there. The month grows in importance as it wanes. It could be financially favorable as well as relaxing and sociable. There's action ahead so enjoy this pleasant interlude. Get ready for it by getting your life in order while you have the time. You are feeling affectionate. Enjoy.

MARCH — Your personal magnetism is strong, Pisces, and your life should be filled with people but it will probably be more of a sociable time than a romantic one. You can be such good company that you attract people to you who appreciate and enjoy it. Don't knock it. Also don't speculate financially this month. You can get ahead if you use good judgement and exert yourself. With all these good things going for you, you paradoxical dear, you still may finish the month feeling sensitive. Now stop that nonsense!

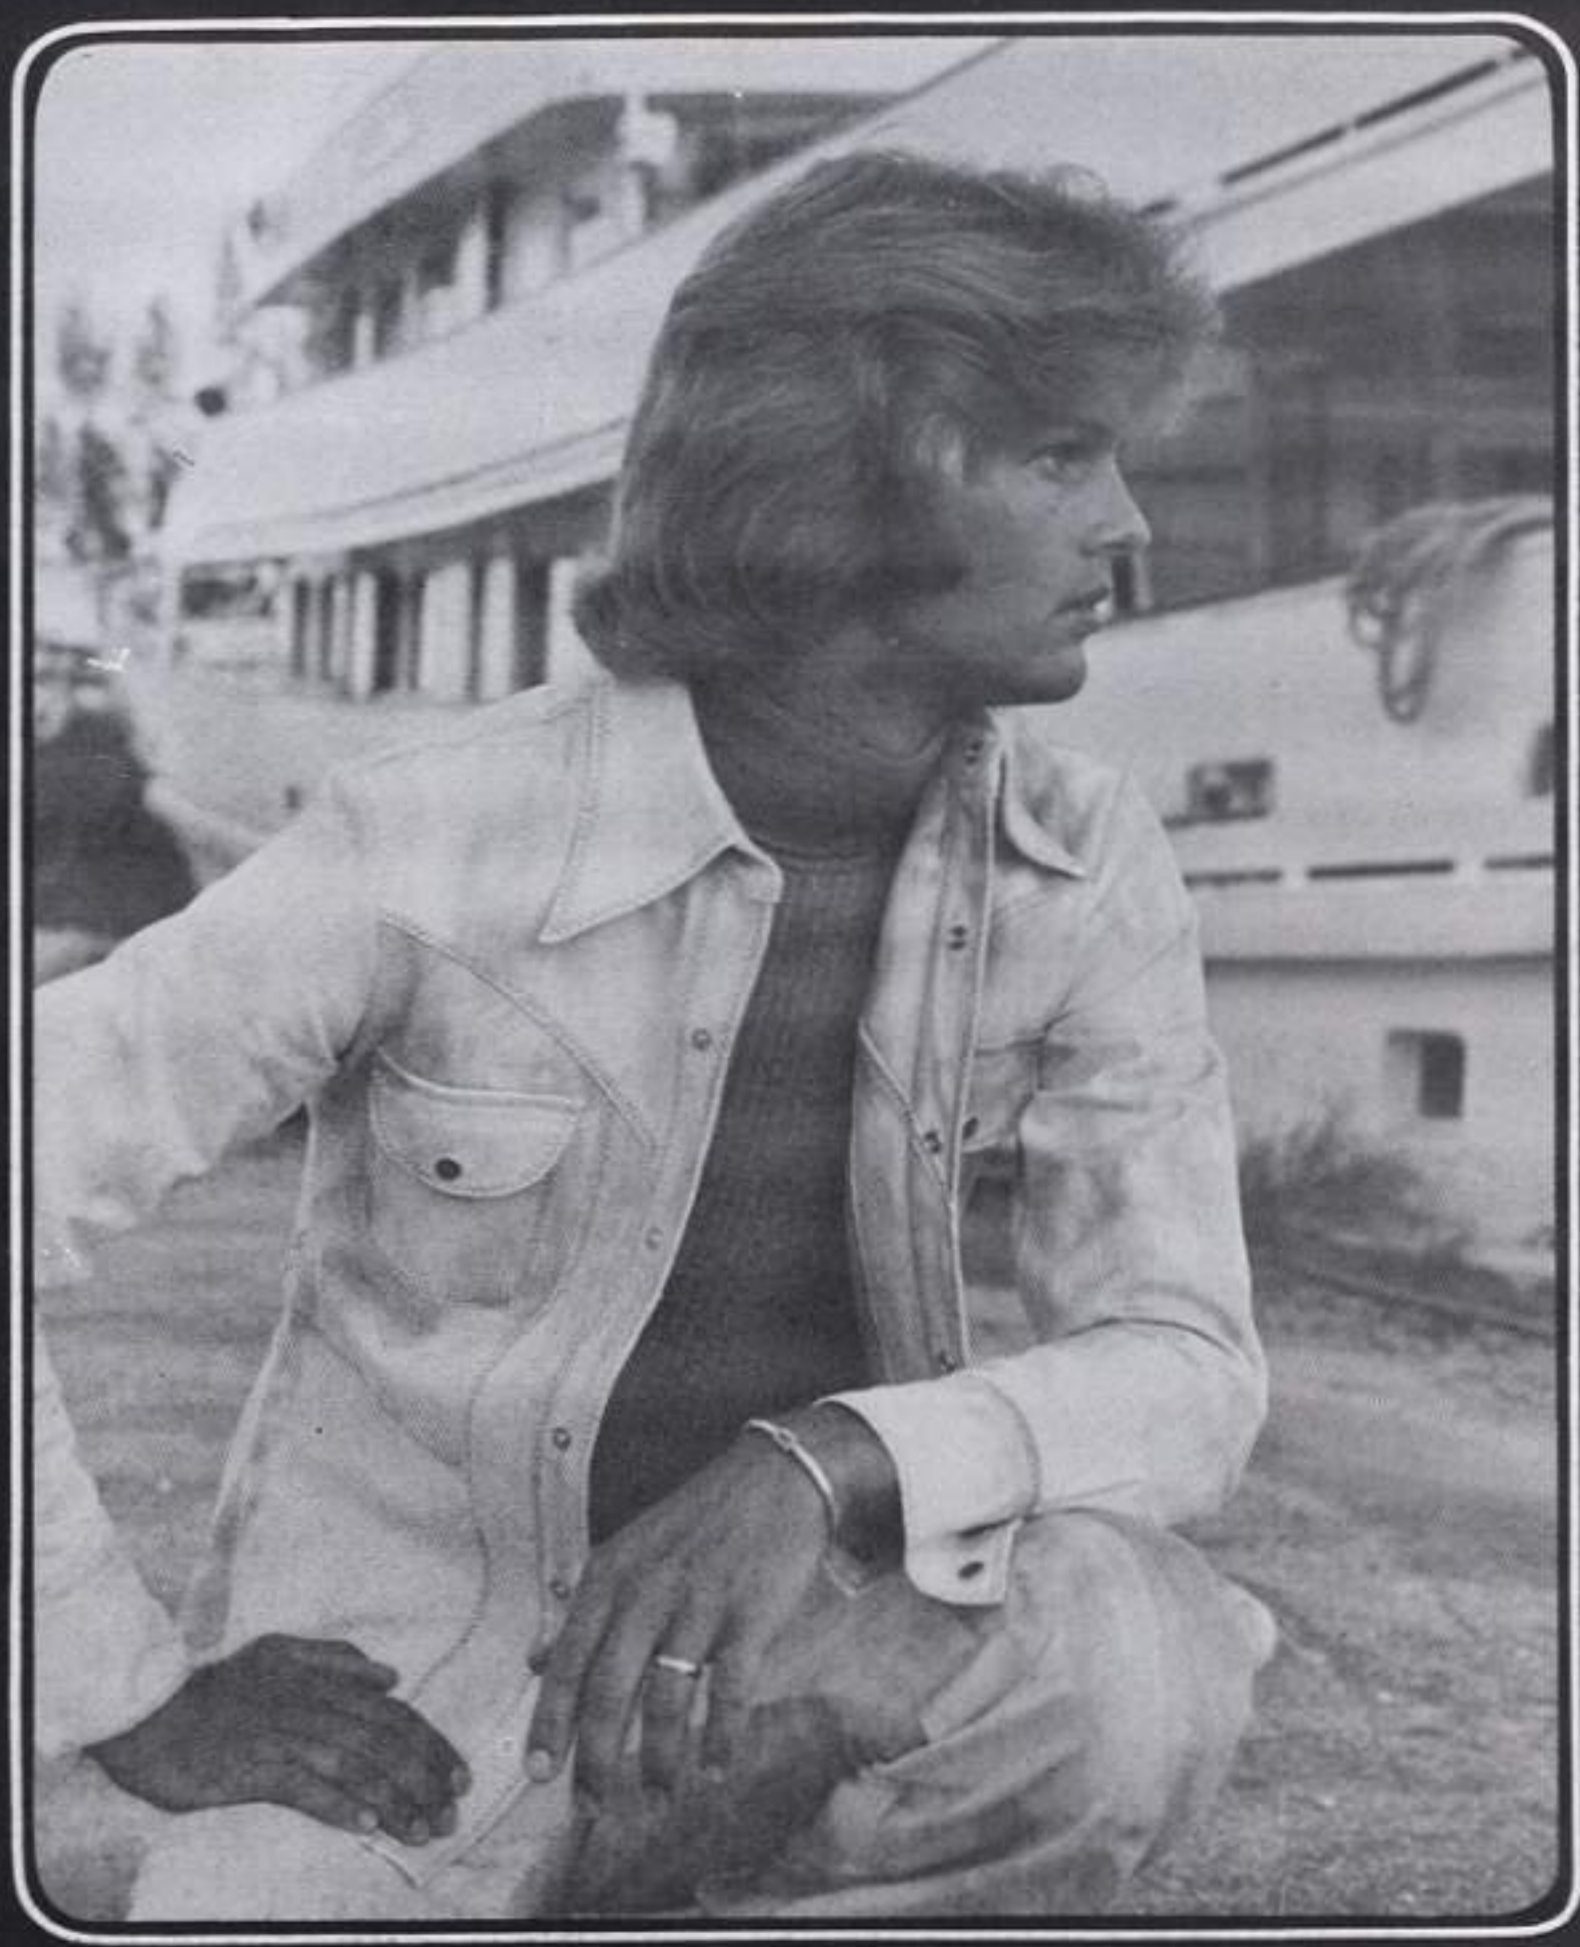
THE BEST FOR EVERY TASTE

STAGG

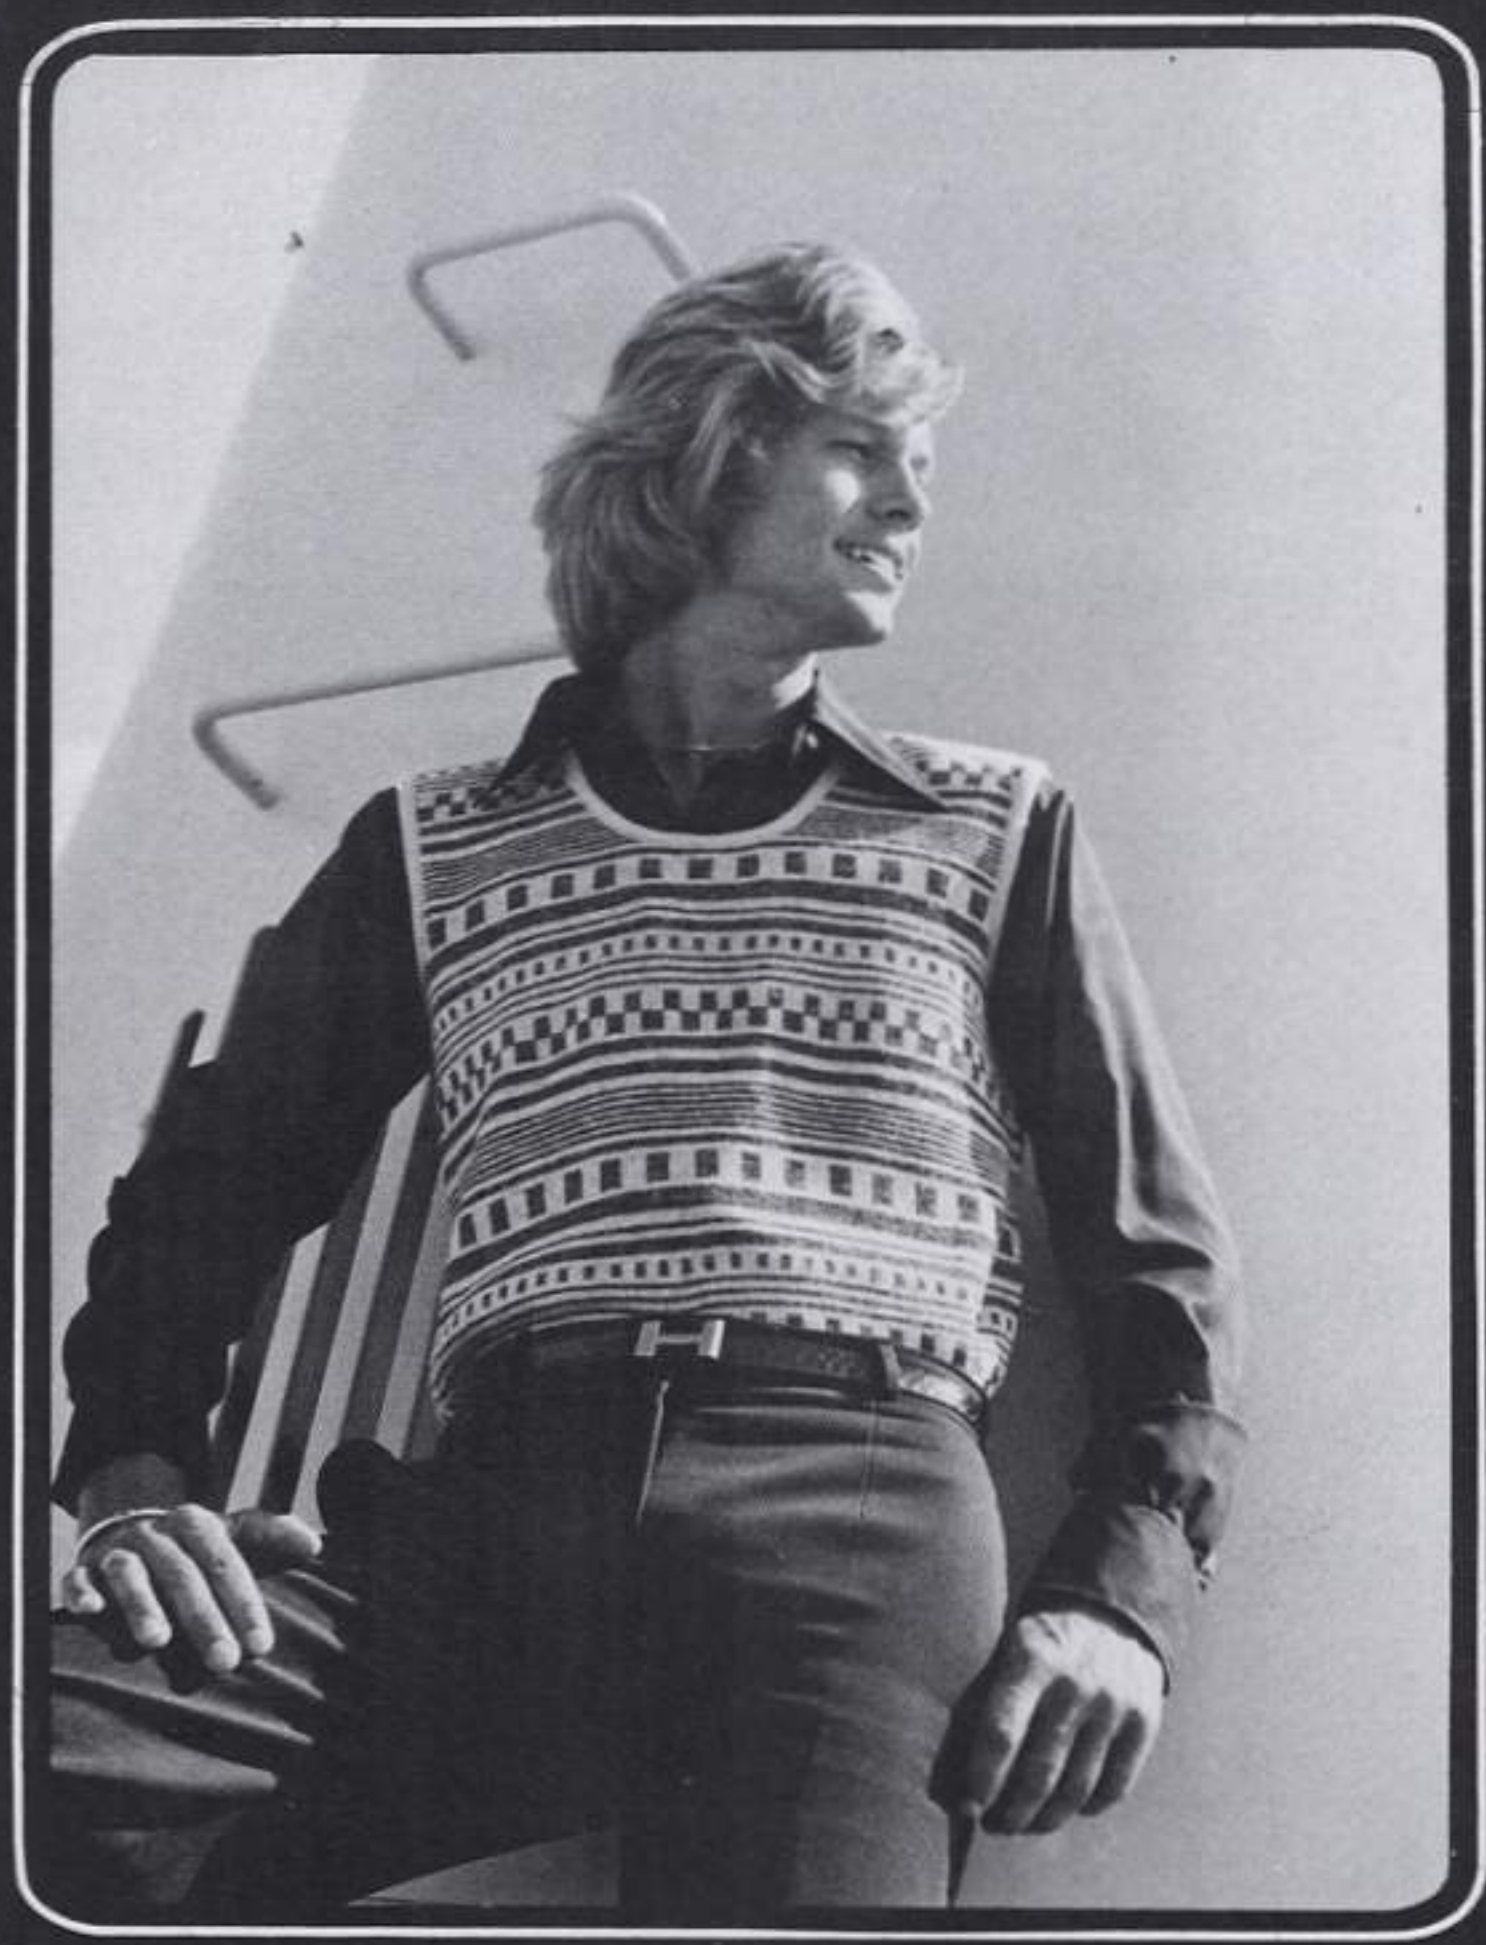
MIRACLE MILE / DADELAND MALL / LINCOLN MALL



For your winter escape from northern slush to Florida lush, Blueboy recommends a sporty dressed-down look. The yacht in the backround can be chartered for eighty-five thousand dollars a month (crew of eight included), but the faded denim suit on the left, worn by Palm Beach's Lonnie Robinson can be had for well under one hundred dollars from Michael's of Florida.
The Italian liesure suit worn by Dale Layne on the right, is set off by a wide ribbed, bottle green, turtle neck sweater and cobra skin belt, all from the Stagg shop.

WEEKENDERS

PHOTOGRAPHED BY T. J. JOHNSON



If there's a light chop and a ten knot breeze you'll want a sweater on deck. Left: Lonnie's wearing a chocolate and beige short sleeve over an Italian silk brown shirt with brown slacks. Lizard belt is French. Right: Dale waits in the gangway in peach shirt and shorts. A burnt orange turtle neck sweater over an Anne Kalso's original "Earth Shoe" sandals. Both outfits from the stagg shop.

David Harris, former stuntman and stand in for James Conrad is protected from the ocean spray by a black featherweight wool shirt, gray gabardine slacks and Australian ostrich skin belt. Our bell ringer on the right is Craig Stevens, sporting a blue silk print shirt from Michael's of Florida, cobra belt from the Stagg shop and sky blue bells from Act III.

Florida is sun, salt water, sand and beautiful bodies. Bathing suite season lasts from December till August. The bathing suits on the left are from P.J's Boutique. On the right the Pierre Cardin suits are from the Stagg shop. The rest you'll have to find out for yourself.

PHOTOGRAPHED BY DAVID VANCE

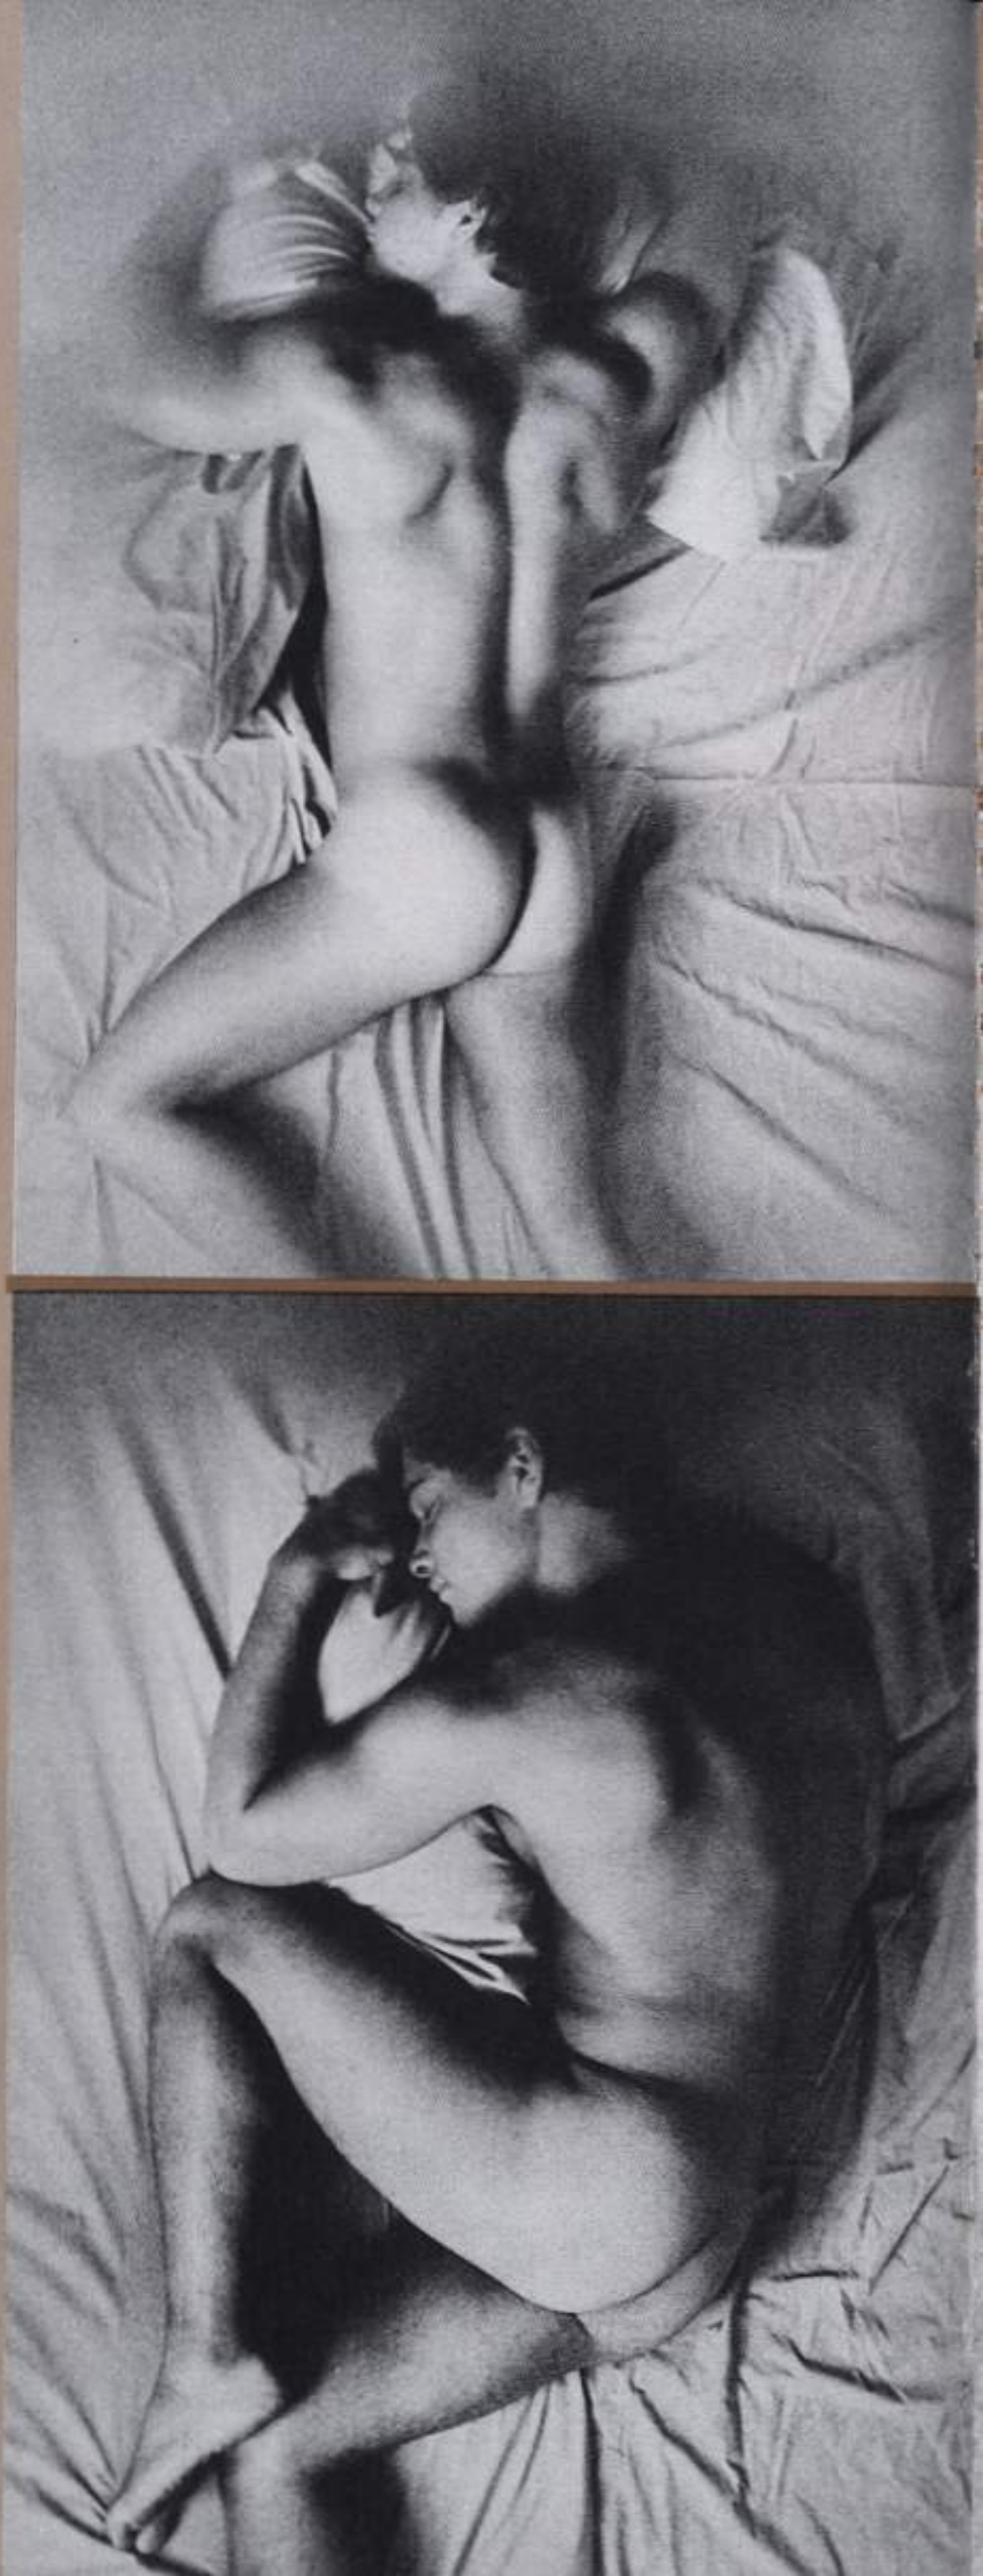
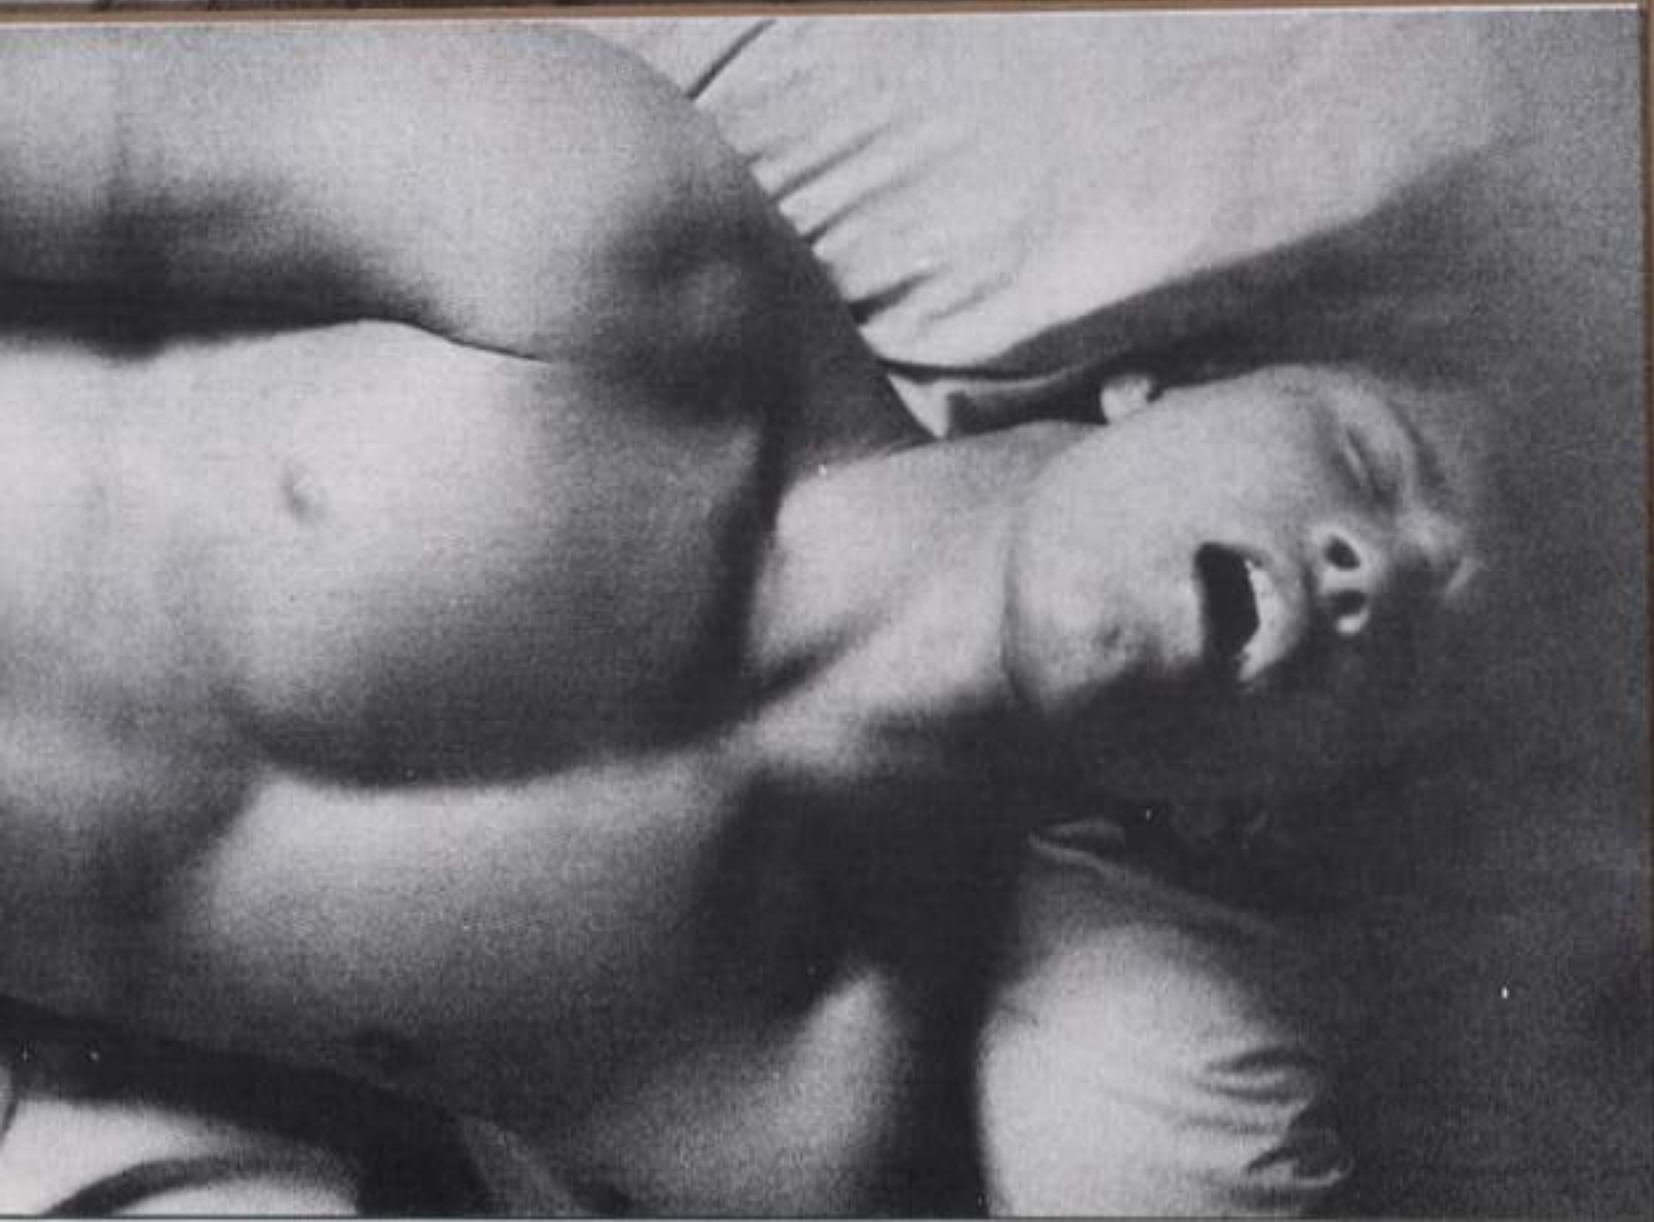
BLUE DREAM





David Vance is a Bachelor of Fine Arts from the Rochester Institute of Technology. The following portfolio of his work demonstrates what many of us in South Florida have known for some time. When it comes to photographing the nude body, David is to the 70's what Duncan and Blakey were to the 60's. The overwhelming majority of David's work however is portraiture and his enormous success in this field seems to relate primarily to his almost mystical talent to focus on the very best features of his clients. Perhaps David explains this best when he says "I don't like pictures to be ordinary. I see people idealistically and photograph them that way."

a remarkable new product for facial lines and wrinkles

Perhaps once in each decade a truly new, effective and beneficial product comes to the marketplace. VITASTICK is one such product. It is not just another messy cream, lotion, coverup or skin irritant. VITASTICK is a new, concentrated compound – in a convenient tube stick – of deep moisturizers with the skin vitamins A, D & E. Research developed, laboratory tested ingredients help fade away facial lines and wrinkles. Just stroke it on directly to lines and wrinkles once or twice a day faithfully. You can help prevent that "old look" now with VITASTICK. Pocket it with you. It works! Just $5 for the 6 month tube. Includes postage & handling. Orders returned 1st class within 48 hours.

ASK ANYONE WHO'S BEEN HERE

He'll tell you of the sun-drenched beach, the bright oceanview rooms and apartments, the super-sized pool that never closes, the sundeck with free lounges and poolside service.

Then he'll tell you it's ten minutes from Ft. Lauderdale airport, and it's the home of the Fabulous "Poop Deck", the dining disco by the sea.

But probably the first thing he'll tell you about is the fantastic people he met here.

And the next thing he'll tell you is when he's coming back.

FIND OUT FOR YOURSELF.

Ella Smilkstein,
a New York freelance photographer, was best known for her work with Bette Midler and Lanie Kazan.
Two years ago she came to Miami and recently set the town on its ear with her controversial Miami Magazine cover and fashion spread featuring two of Florida's well known transvestites.
This photo essay was Ella's first gay assignment; and she loved it.

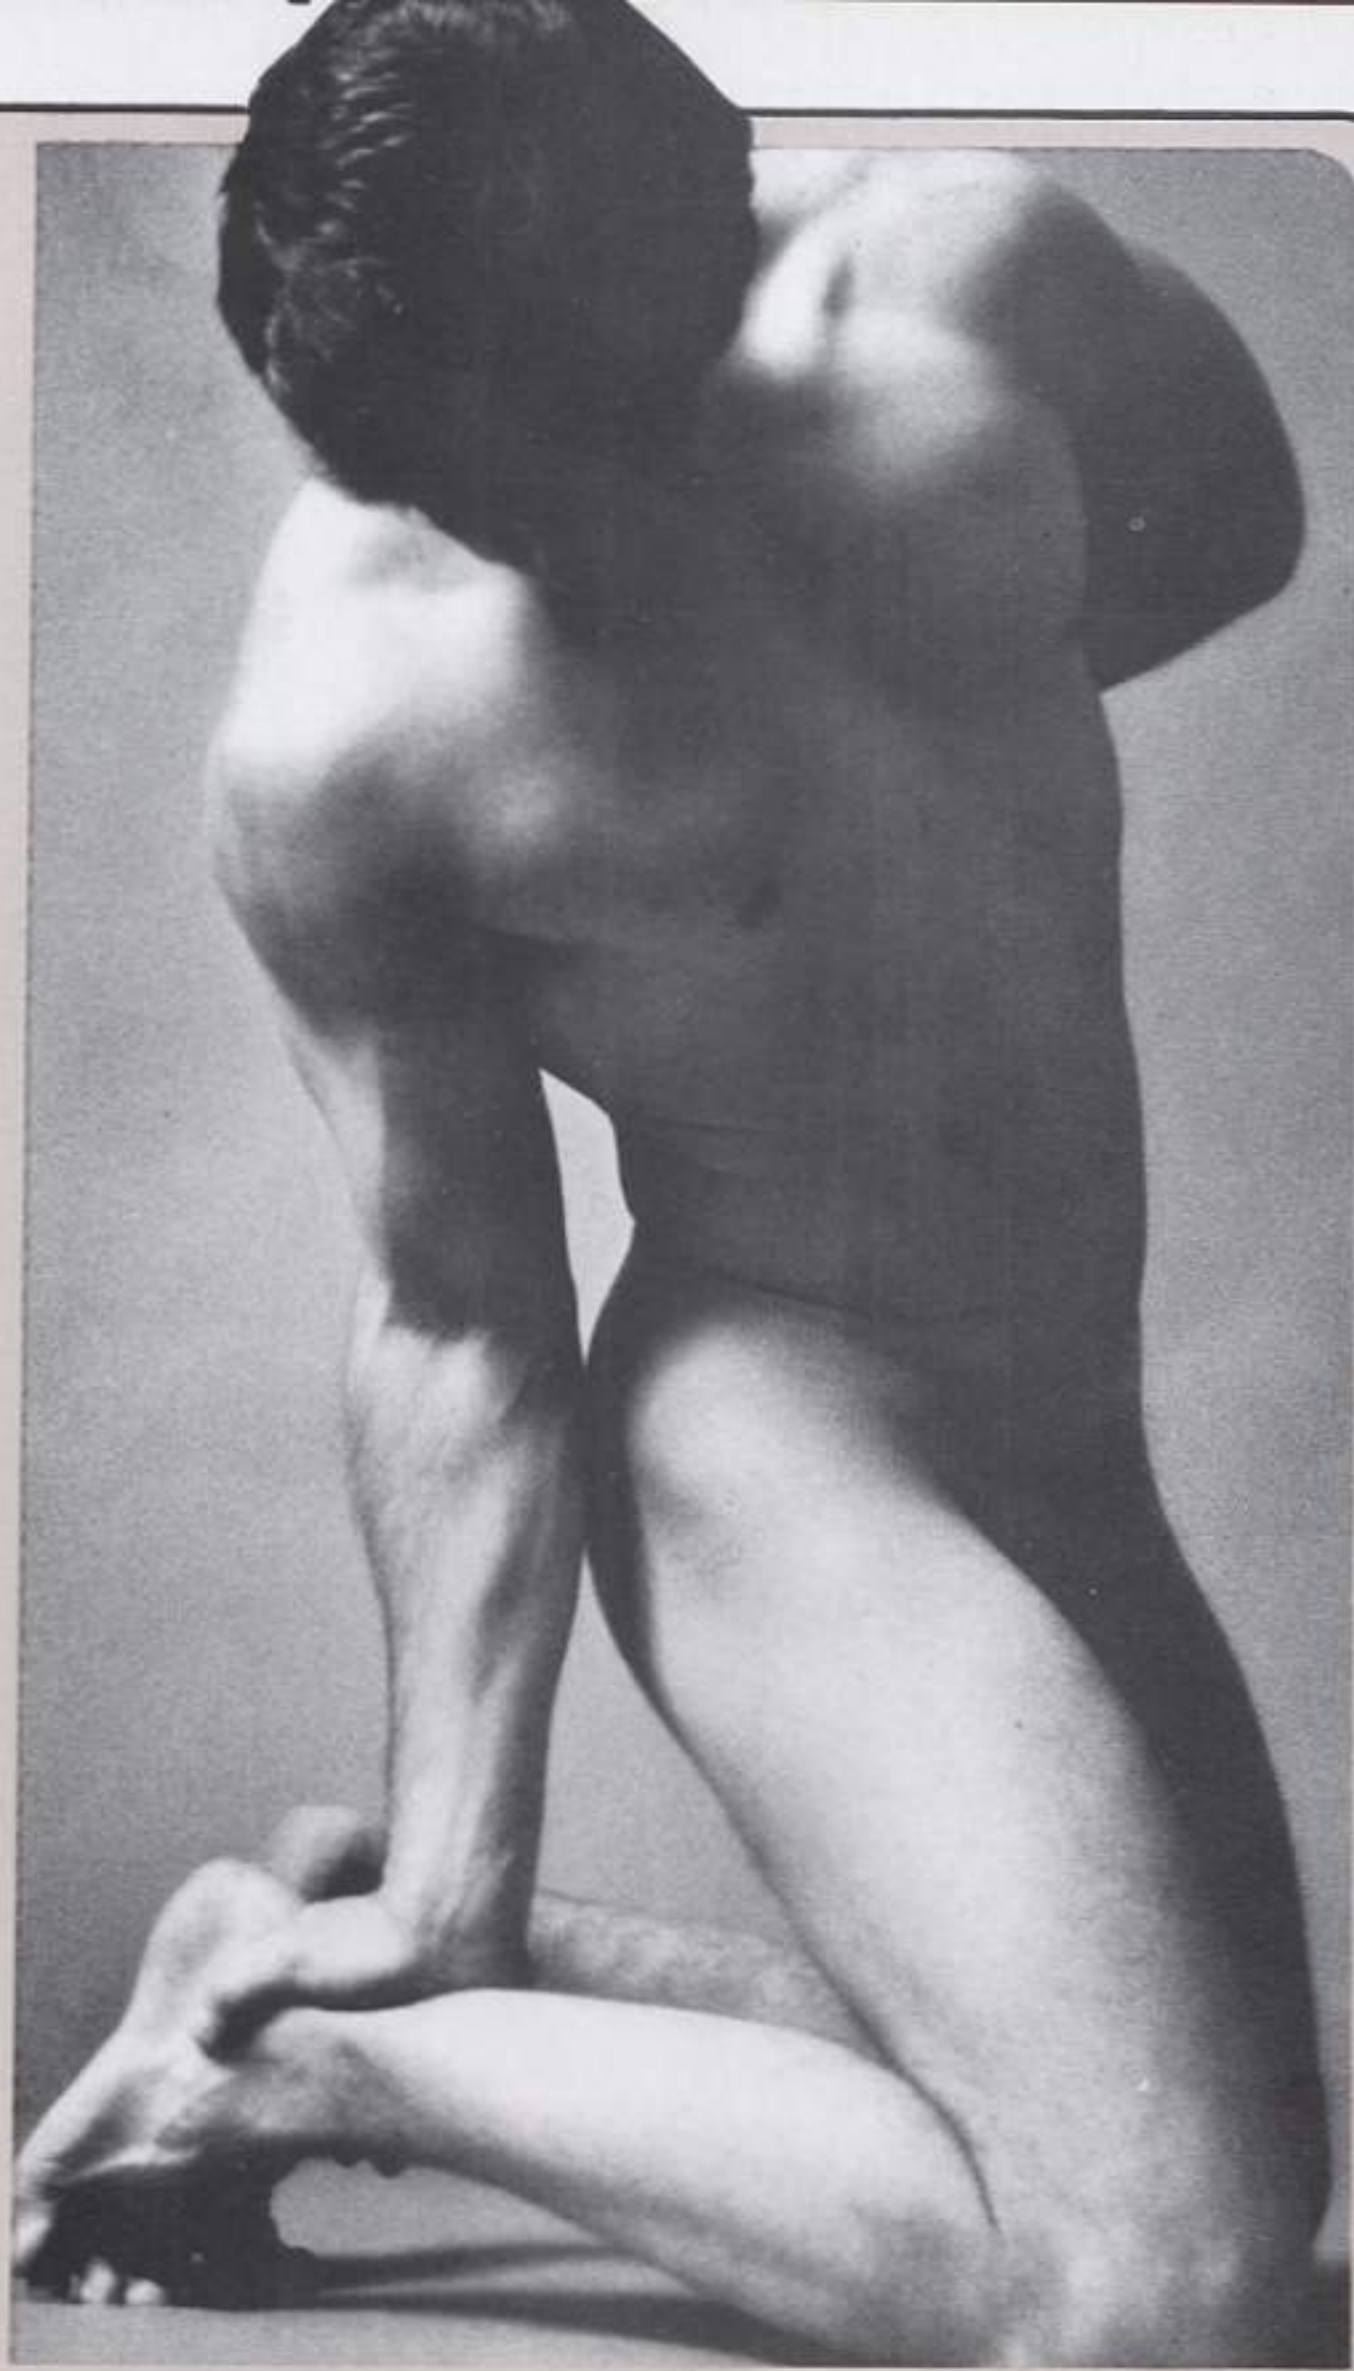
HOW TO WRITE A BLUEBOY



Place your letter in an envelope and seal.

Plainly print your name and mailing address or code number in left hand corner.

Print the blue boy's complete code number (Prefix-Number-State) in the center.

Enclose your letters in a larger envelope and include $1.00 for each letter to be forwarded.

Mail to: Forwarding Dept., blue boy Box 33143, Washington, D. C. 20028

Please observe postal regulations. Do not send obscene letters or photographs through the mail.

NOTE:

All instructions must be followed carefully to avoid delay and added expense. You may pay by cash, check or money order payable to blue boy.

We guarantee to forward your letters to the advertisers the same day and if for some reason we cannot, your letters will be promptly returned with a credit slip. This is why we require your full name and return address or complete blue boy code number on the outside of each letter. Please print plainly or it will not be forwarded. Also print your name and mailing address or complete blue boy code number inside of each letter. Always include your ZIP code. In addition, it's a good idea to enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope inside for the return of your letter if the advertiser is not interested.

blue boy will not knowingly accept fraudulent, obscene, offensive or questionable advertising. Since it is impossible to investigate each advertiser, we will not assume any responsibility relative to any communications or transactions between advertisers and readers. Anyone corresponding with or through this publication is required to comply with all local, state and federal laws. No advertisements accepted from persons under age 21.

Here is a simple explanation of your PERSONAL "BLUE BOY" code number

The two initials indicates your state (used by the United States Postal Service); the four numbers following have been assigned to you by the blue boy publications office; and the last five numbers are your own ZIP code.

Listed below are the Two-Letter State Abbreviations and the first three numbers of the Zip Code assigned to your state or area.
