
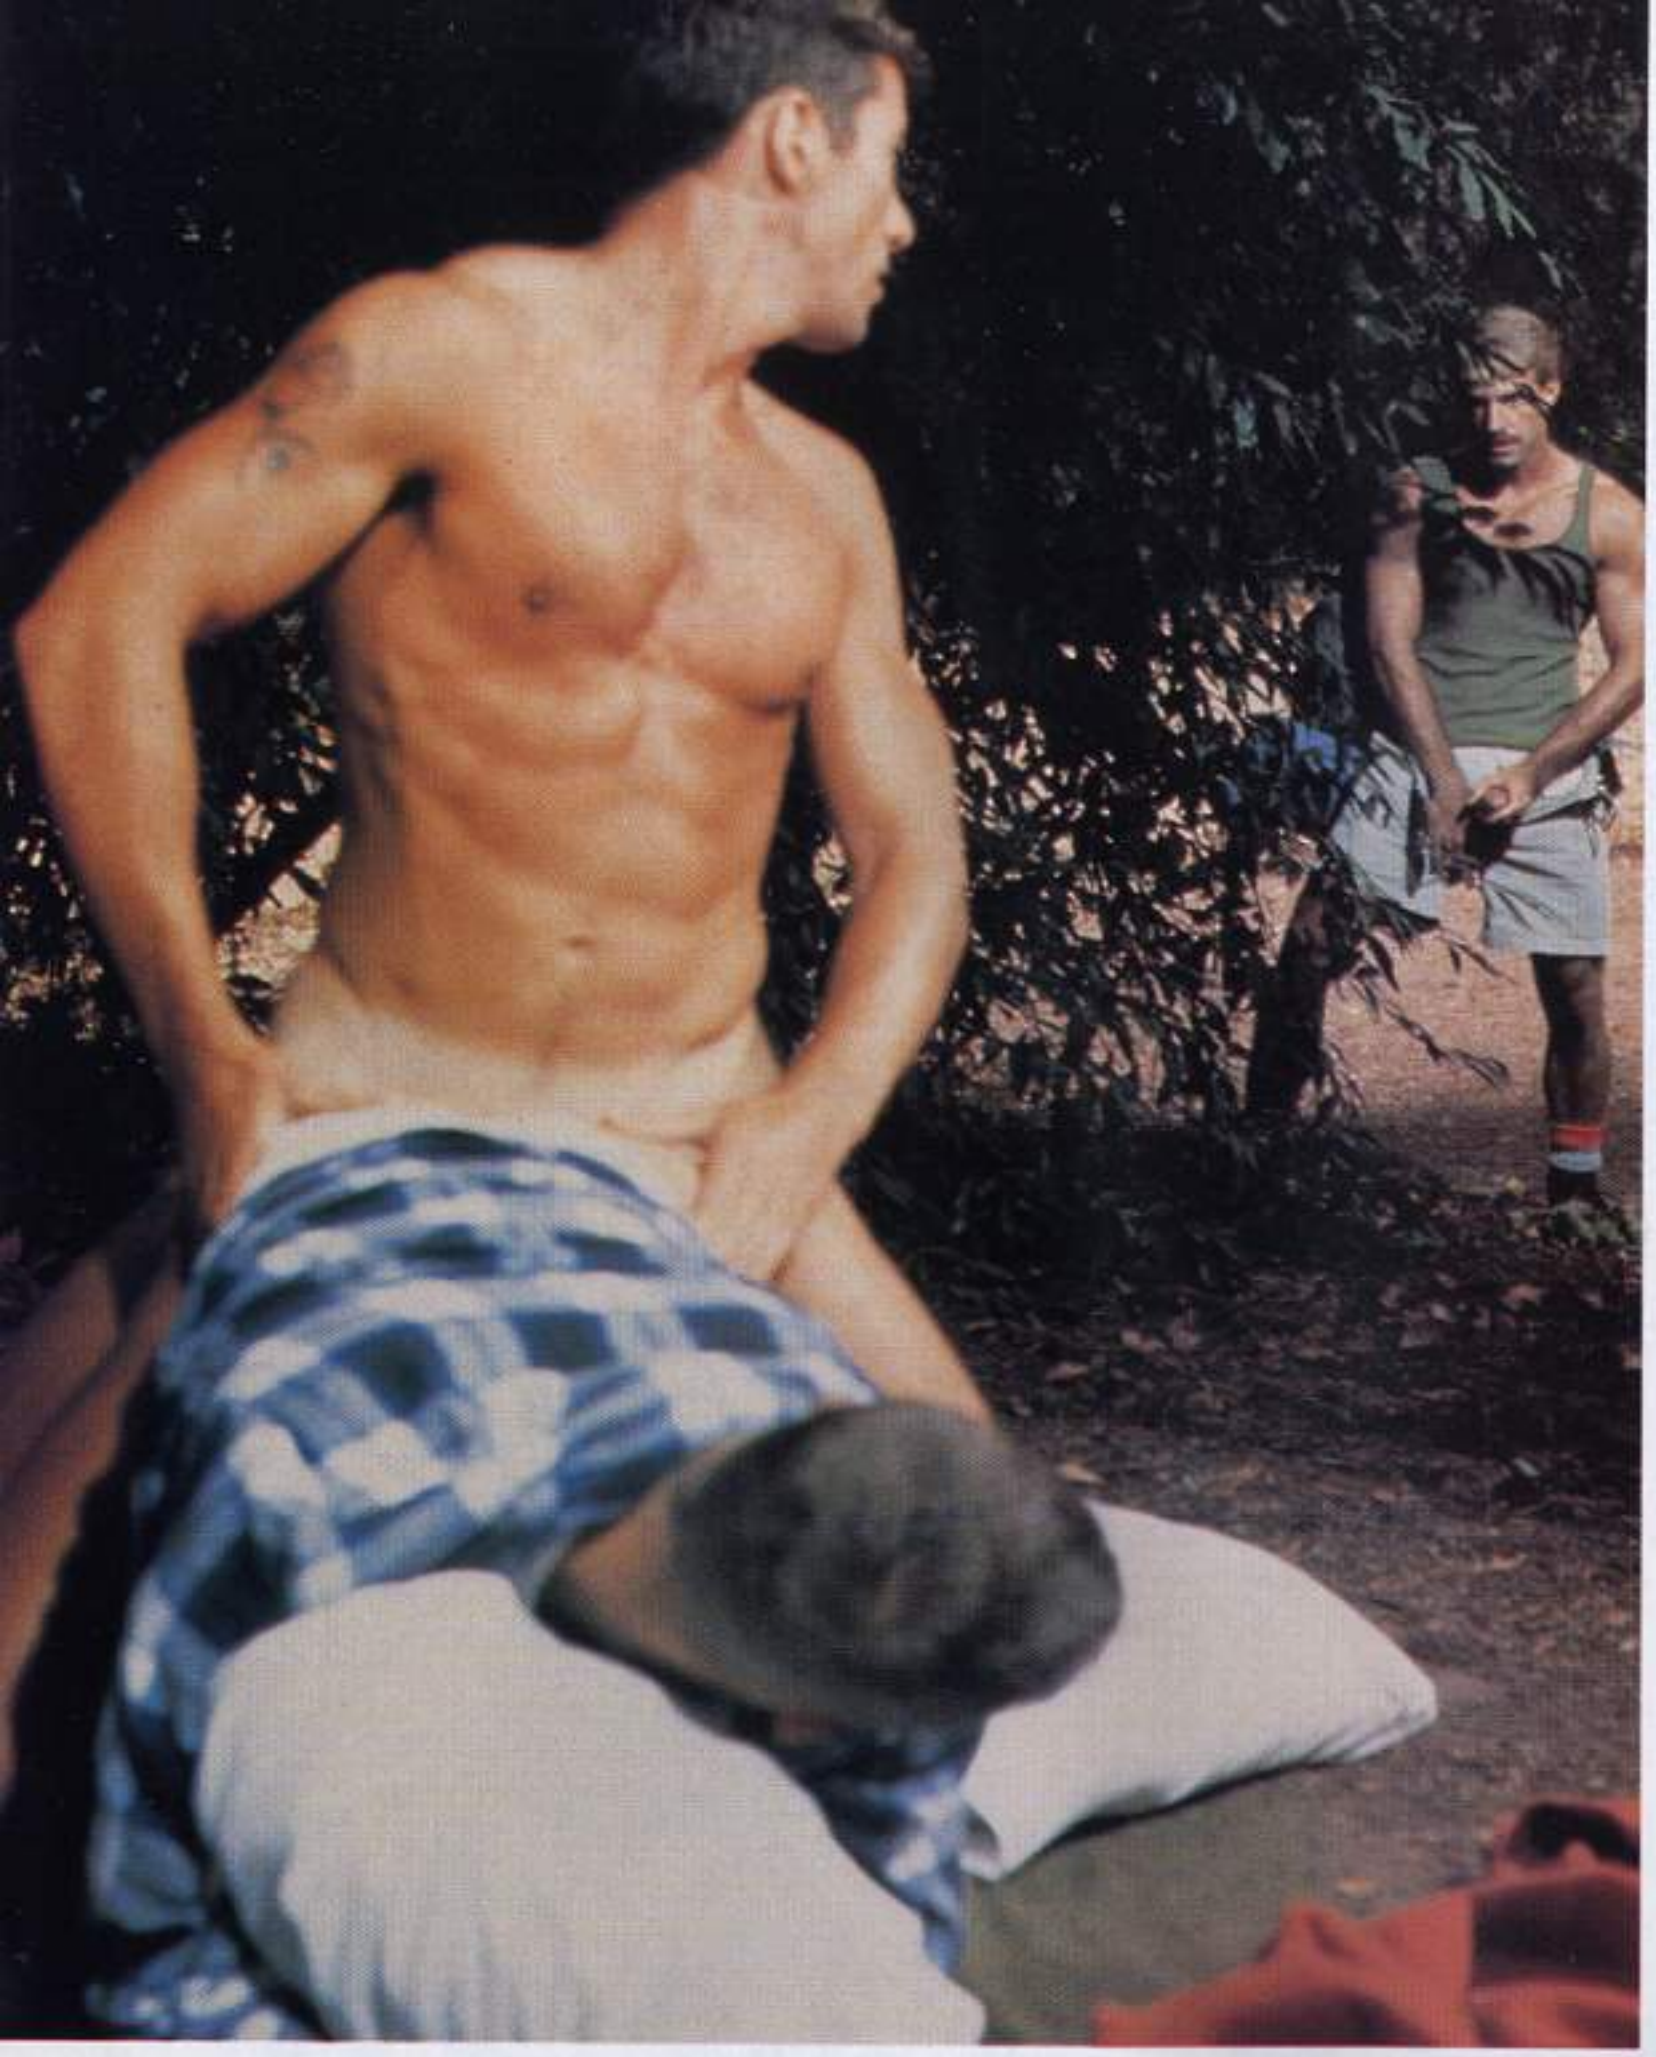
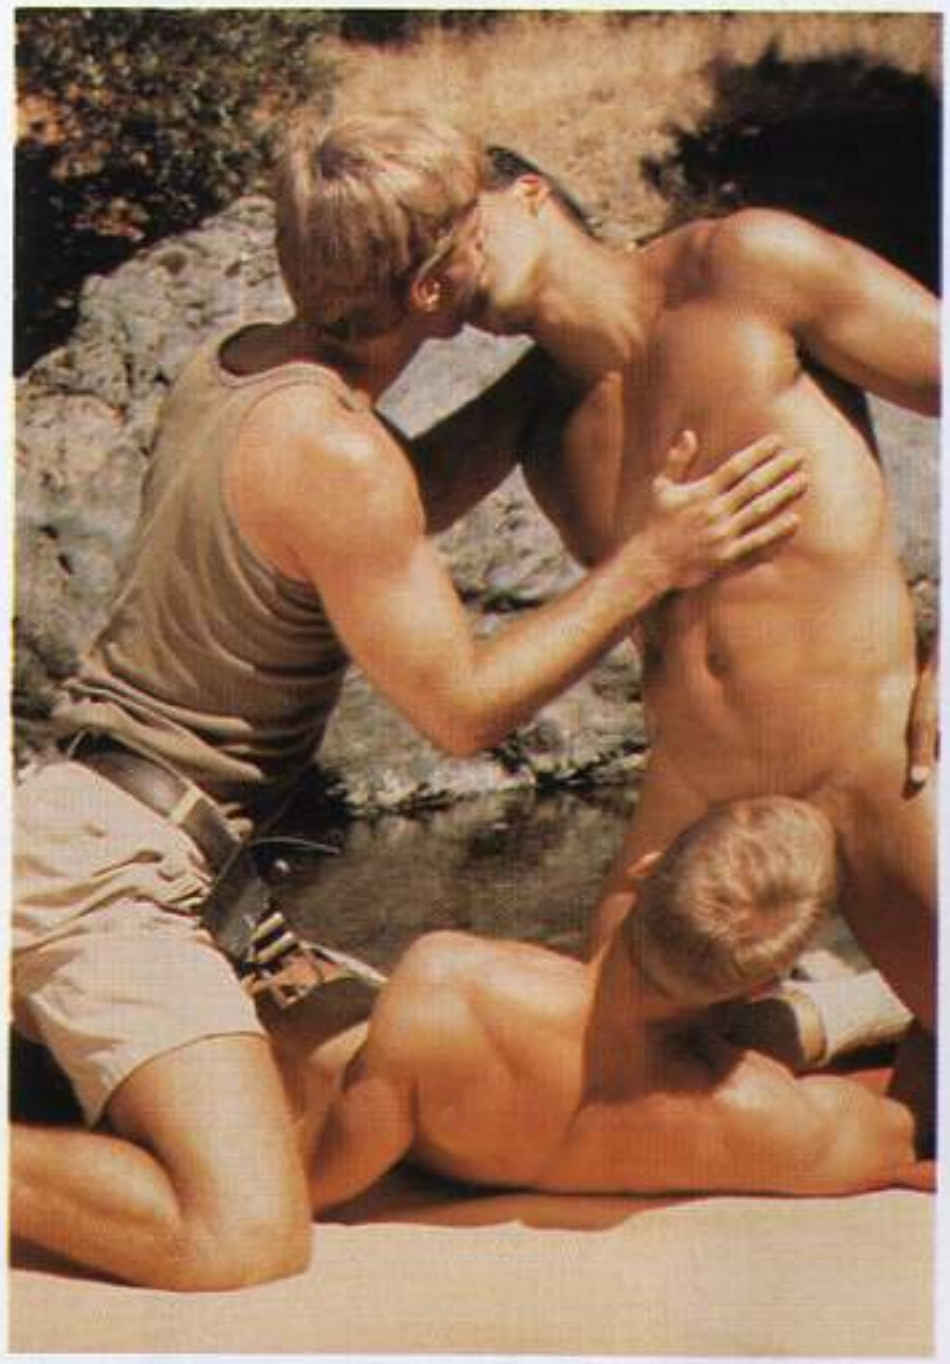
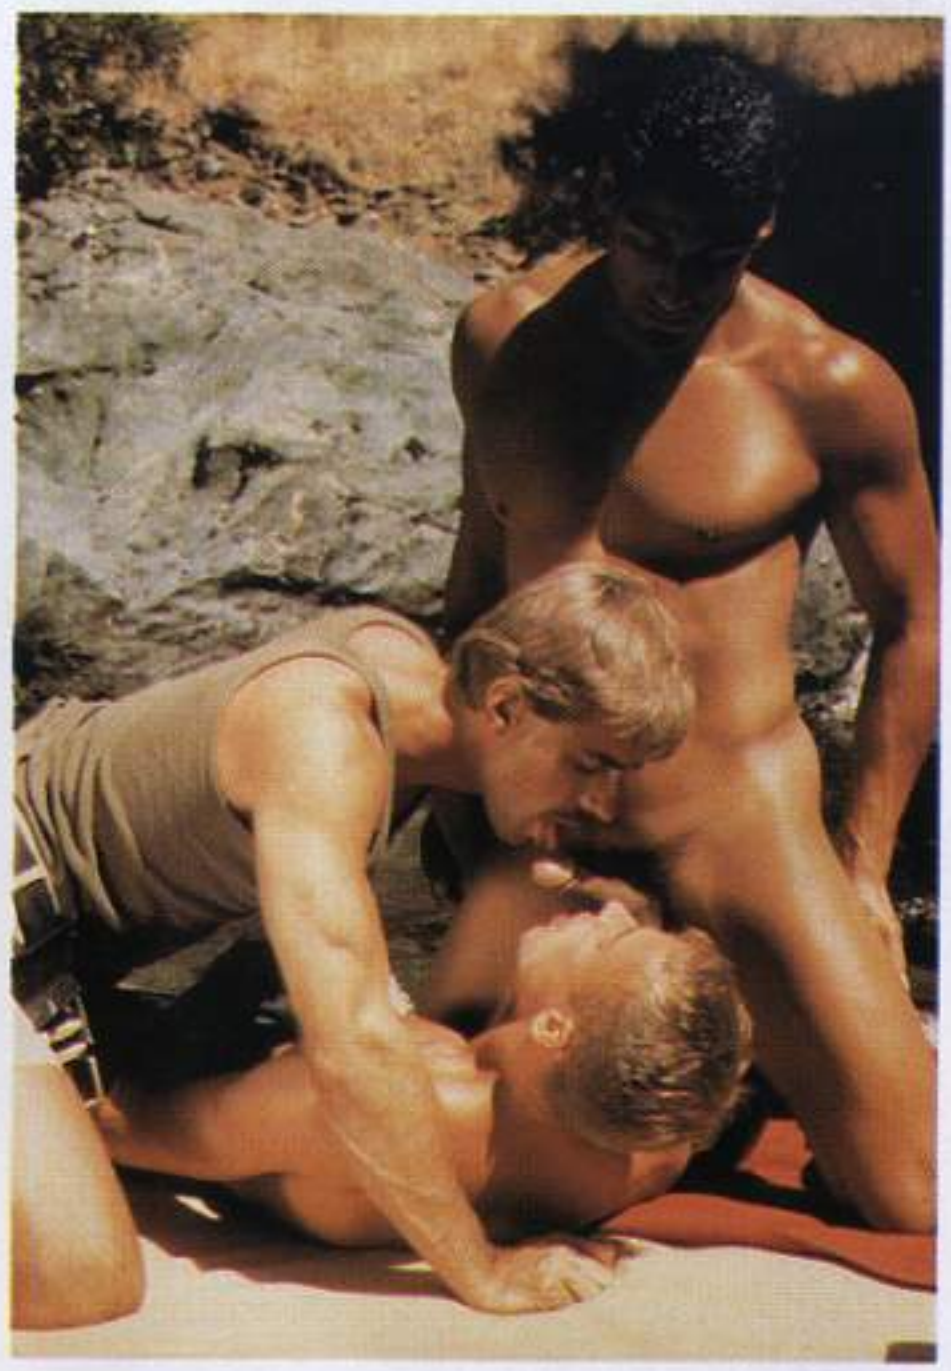
breakaway

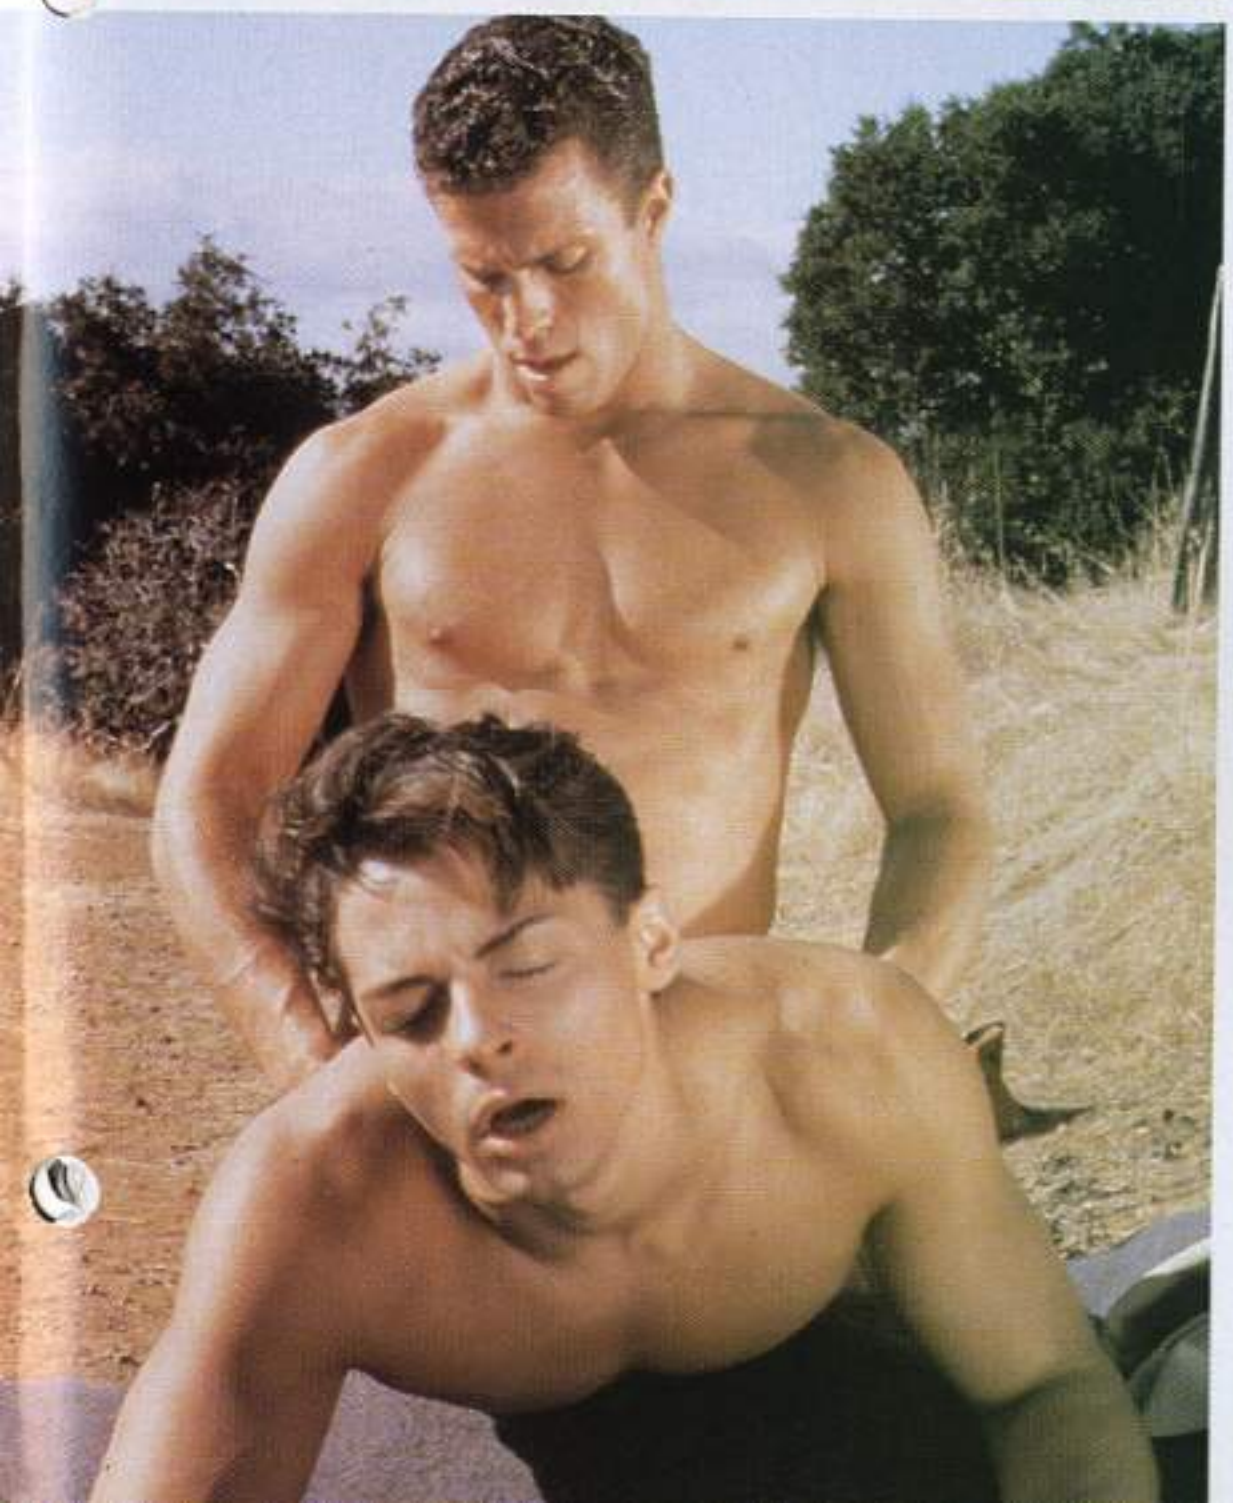
All of the action is shot outdoors and is terribly pretty in this Jocks release, directed by John Rutherford. Chase Hunter. (opposite page, left), here in his fourth video to date, heads for the Northern California woods with some sort of map and sets off on a trek. In this scene, Hunter stumbles upon Alex Kincaid mending a fence and "bu-fus" him soundly. The scene works because of Hunter's meat and sustained energy. Falcon's promo campaign for Breakaway included a live Sequoia Gigantia sapling sent to every video critic. Ours has already grown several inches, just like our cocks every time we see Chase in action.



Joey Morgan and Aiden Shaw (opposite page, top) do each other at nighttime around their redwood ringed campsite. Hunter stumbles upon them and jacks off watching these two young veterans.





A surprisingly short-haired Dave Logan working over Max Grand (opposite page, top). Again as in scene two, Chase Hunter does his nature-boy routine and spies upon the principals. This time, he is asked to join in and ends up sitting on Logan's face while Grand bops the brit.


Jake Andrews, a forest range, comes upon young Vince Rockland, who's having some trouble with his truck. Rockland is overcome with desire for Andrew's picnic basket, and attempts a not very subtle seduction - Andrews objects, but is so impressed by his sincerity that he suddenly comes over all queer.